Record Turnout Ushers in State Fair

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A record crowd of 191,000 Thursday ushered in the 114th annual Ohio State Fair. Naturally, there was plenty of gazing—subjects ranging from pretty girls to a docile Jersey cow designed to serve as a walking science laboratory.

First, the beauty. A tall slim "farmerette", 17-year-old Marcia Cessna of Springfield, competed with 137 other contestants to win the 1967 Future Farmers of America State Fair Queen title.

Miss Cessna now goes to the Queen of Queens Contest, Sept. 2, to compete for the title of Miss Ohio State Fair.

Now the science. The quiet Jersey milker didn't act any different than other bovine at the fair. But there's a difference. She has a porthole in her side that an attending scientist screws on and off like the lid of a jar.

But the seemingly freak show is strictly scientific. The cow's attendants explained that the plug, by collecting food samples shows how the digestive system of a cow works.

Several incidents marred the early hours of the fair. An hour after the gates opened, 12-year-old Jeff Conway of suburban Grandview suffered a broken ankle when hit by a shuttle bus.

Then a Waco biplane owned by Banner Towing Service of Dayton, towing an advertising banner, made an emergency landing in the fairgrounds parking area. The plane and its passengers landed unscathed.

Thursday was All-Ohio Youth Day. Thousands of those passing through the turnstiles were children. The first person to go through the gates was Michael Kendrick, 11, Columbus.

Singer Pat Boone was the top-billed performer for opening day's grandstand shows. He returns today, and Andy Williams and Sonny and Cher take over for Saturday and Sunday.

Today is Canton day at the fair.

Industrialist Henry Kaiser Is Dead at 85

Henry J. Kaiser.

HONOLULU (AP)—Henry J. Kaiser—founder of a billion-dollar industrial empire spread over 40 countries—died in his sleep Thursday. He was 85.

Kaiser was at his oceanfront estate about 10 miles from Honolulu when he was stricken by a circulatory and heart condition.

At his side were his wife Alyce, whom he married after the death of his first wife in 1951; his son Edgar and Edgar's wife.

Kaiser was born May 9, 1882, at Sprout Brook, N.Y., one of four children of German immigrants. He started his career as a $1.50-a-week clerk in a Utica, N.Y., dry goods store after leaving school at 13 to help support his family.

There was almost nothing Kaiser did not have a hand in: giant dams such as Hoover, Bonneville, Grand Coulee and Shasta; famed Liberty ships of World War II; the familiar Jeep; the Kaiser health centers; cement; aluminum; steel; chemicals; aircraft and missile components and electronic equipment; radio and television stations; hotels; and the latest, a new community of Hawaii-Kai.

Memorial Book Is Recovered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A 65-pound memorial book containing 21,000 names of Ohio's war dead and apparently stolen Aug. 19 from the rear of the Memorial Shrine at Mohican State Park has been recovered in Columbus.

Al Astrowski, a janitor at Brookhaven school, found the book on school grounds Thursday and delivered it to the state headquarters of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

The book, listing names which took 18 years to compile, was apparently in good condition. There were no clues to identity of the thief.

Ky Thinks His Ticket Big Winner

HOA HAO, Vietnam (AP)—Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said today he believes his military presidential ticket will get more votes than all the civilian tickets combined.

The military is running Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu for president and Ky for vice president in the election Sept. 3 against 10 civilian tickets.

Ky spoke to newsmen while standing on the deck of a Vietnamese navy river patrol boat, cruising through An Giang Province in the Mekong delta. The premier was campaigning among some of his staunchest supporters, the Hoa Hao religious sect.

In the town of Hoa Hao, seat of the sect's estimated 700,000 members, Ky told their national convention:

"Maybe I am still not a good politician, maybe I talk too much and too directly because of my young age, maybe I deserve criticism...but I think that nobody can question my attachment to the people."

Ky is thought to have solid control of the 400,000 Hoa Hao votes.

Ky told the newsmen in An Giang, he would be satisfied if his ticket got 35 to 50 per cent of the vote but added that he expects more.

Meanwhile, one of the civilian candidates declared in Saigon that enough U. S. troops are fighting the war and no more should be sent. He said better use should be made of South Vietnamese troops.

PICKAWAY COUNTY'S driver license examiner Ross Hamilton will vouch for the fact that more and more people are driving on Ohio's highways each day.

The load of persons taking tests to get their licenses has become so heavy the examiner has had to add another day to the schedule when he gives written and road tests.

Beginning the first week in September, the office of the examiner, located at the Ohio State Highway Patrol post on South Court St., will be open 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

Written exams for permits will be given from 8 to 10 a. m. Road tests will be scheduled from 10 a. m. until 4 p. m. The road examinations must be arranged in advance with Hamilton.

CANDLES will never replace electricity... A section of the Pickaway County area was without electricity last night as a result of a fire... Ready one-self for bed by candlelight does not give one a pioneering spirit, it just leaves you in the dark.

Morton said Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp. of Louisville, Ky., tested the filter in Strickman's presence. "They didn't think according to their test that it was worth much," he said.

Brown & Williamson said its tests were conducted in May, 1966.

Later, a Morton assistant said the senator had learned that Lorillard Co., a New York-based cigarette and tobacco firm, also tested and rejected a Strickman filter.

Mrs. Lamb was a member of the Presbyterian Church. Funeral services will be held 2:30 p. m. Monday in Deffenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Henry Walters officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p. m. Saturday.

Kantor Novel Creates Stir At Amherst

AMHERST, Ohio (AP)—The novel "Andersonville" will not be removed from this year's high school reading list, but the book will not be assigned to any student who objects to it, Amherst school Supt. Clayton Smith said Thursday.

A controversy over the novel was started when Laurence Van Der Oord asked the Amherst board of education to fire Donald Hicks, a history teacher, because he required his students to read "Andersonville," which Van Der Oord described as a filthy novel.

Van Der Oord, an elementary physical education teacher in the Lorain School System, said his daughter, Linda, failed an American history course at Amherst High School last year because she refused to finish the novel.

Hicks said that although a few parts of the novel are objectionable, "the relative worth of the entire book outweighs the objectionable parts. The novel's historical value has been proved."

"Andersonville," by MacKinlay Kantor, deals with northern soldiers in a southern prisoner of war camp during the Civil War. It won a Pulitzer prize in 1956.

Comedian 'Executed' In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP)—Hong Kong Chinese radio comedian Lam Bun died today, a day after Communist terrorists turned him into a human torch, and a terrorist group boasted it had executed him for ridiculing Red rioters and agitators.

Lam's murder was a warning to "others committing similar crimes," said Hong Kong Communist newspapers, quoting the "underground traitor-executing onslaught headquarters."

Lam's brother was reported near death. The two men were riding in a car Thursday when terrorists, pretending to be highway workers, waved their car to a halt, threw in a bomb, then doused the brothers with gasoline and set them afire.

Lam, who conducted a radio program of biting satire, was the third terrorist fatality this week in the British colony on Red China's southern coast. A bomb killed two Chinese children Sunday.

American Nazi Leader Is Shot

13 Jets Downed In Week's Raids

SAIGON (AP)—American warplanes drove deep into North Vietnam Thursday, bombing rail and military targets within 18 miles of Red China but losing another F105 Thunderchief jet to Red ground fire, the U.S. Command said today.

The Thunderchief was the 13th American jet reported downed in the air war against North Vietnam this week—one of the grimmest of the year for American fliers—and the 660th U.S. combat plane reported lost striking North Vietnam. The pilot was listed as missing in action, bringing the week's loss so far to 19 fliers missing with three rescued by helicopters.

Although no major ground action was reported in South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said at least 156 Communist troops were killed in scattered fighting, and police in Saigon disclosed the arrest of a Red terror cell of two men and three women. They were rounded up in the continuing police pressure to thwart Red attempts to disrupt the Sept. 3 presidential elections now nine days away.

U.S. headquarters reported that despite thunderstorms over much of North Vietnam, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots flew 152 missions Thursday. Although some pilots reported Communist MIGs skirting the edge of American formations, there were no dogfights, and the pilots said the Reds also fired fewer of the Soviet-built surface-to-air missiles than they threw up during raids on the Hanoi area earlier this week.

Returning pilots said the rail yards above Hanoi remained filled with boxcars unable to move south because the only rail bridges across the Red River at Hanoi have been dropped by bombing.

Pilots said there were almost 200 pieces of rolling stock in four yards hit Thursday and most of these were shot up, bombed or rocketed. But smoke and flames prevented precise damage reports.

Foreign Aid Cut Approved By 202-194

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House, laboring through a marathon 15-hour session, voted early today to slash President Johnson's foreign aid requests by a half billion dollars to $2.8 billion.

Even after a Republican-Southern Democratic coalition pushed through floor cuts of 44 million—and the House accepted earlier committee cuts of $219 million for a total of $563 million less than Johnson asked—the Democratic leadership was able to get the reduced version through by only an eight-vote margin.

The final count, recorded at 3:36 a.m., was 202 to 194. Many members had long since fled the chamber.

Even with the extensive pruning, the House-passed measure still contains nearly $200 million more than the Senate approved last week.

The differences, mostly in the military assistance section of the legislation, now must be resolved by a two-house conference committee.

Just before passing the measure, the House overturned an earlier 145-141 vote and cut an additional $33 million in technical assistance funds. The Republican move won the second time around, 234 to 163.

Included among the major cuts were $150 million from the development loan program, $72 million from the alliance for progress and $25 million from the President's contingency fund.

Another $60 million for support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was chopped out after members were told they already had authorized the money in a separate bill passed earlier.

Rockwell Is Slain By Sniper

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, was shot and killed today by a sniper, Arlington police said.

Police said Rockwell was in a parking lot across the street from the Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb when he was shot.

They said the sniper, who fired from the roof of a building, escaped.

Police said they were looking for a man dressed in a trench coat.

Police said the victim was struck in the chest in the 6000 block of Wilson Boulevard.

Arlington police officer John E. Mitchell said policemen who rushed to the scene reported the victim was Rockwell, 47, well known to most of the Arlington's police force.

Rockwell apparently was killed instantly by the sniper's bullet.

Arlington police were combing the mixed commercial and residential area for the unknown killer.

An ambulance called to the scene remained for 30 minutes while the victim's body lay on the ground following the noon shooting.

Rockwell frequently appeared around the country leading counter-demonstrations during civil rights marches.

He often was accompanied at such demonstrations by members of his party dressed in uniforms patterned after those of German Storm Troopers of the Hitler era.

Rockwell also was a frequent speaker before college audiences. His appearances usually brought out pickets and hecklers.

Dayton Newspaper Doesn't Publish

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—This city's morning newspaper, the Journal Herald, didn't publish today. A spokesman for the paper said an unauthorized work stoppage by pressmen caused the shutdown.

"The dispute centers on overtime pay," said R. C. Snyder, vice president and general manager of Dayton Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Journal Herald and the afternoon Dayton Daily News.

Snyder said he didn't know if the situation would affect publication of today's Daily News. Separate chapels of the union deal with the jointly published newspapers.

Resolution Vote Urged By Fulbright

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. J. W. Fulbright, still pressing for a vote on his national commitment resolution, says he is not trying to test Senate support for President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

The resolution would define a U.S. commitment to defend another nation as one that Congress, as well as the President, had a role in making.

Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and a leading critic of Johnson's Vietnam policies, has argued that Congress' role in foreign policy has been diluted by the executive branch.

Hearings on his measure, which would not be binding on the President, dealt at length with the Vietnam war, particularly the Tonkin Gulf resolution.

That resolution, adopted by Congress in 1964 after two U.S. destroyers were attacked by North Vietnam torpedo boats, approved "all necessary steps, including the use of armed force" to prevent aggression in Southeast Asia.

Whether Congress intended a war of the present scope—including bombing North Vietnam—was discussed in detail during hearings this month.

The chairman said in an interview, he intended his proposal to be broader than the question of whether the Tonkin Gulf declaration still constitutes congressional support for Johnson on Vietnam.

"We only used that as the most recent example of the kind of device the executive uses to act without the Congress," Fulbright commented.

He said his national commitment resolution might come on a vote late next month.

Sen. Morton Says Filter Was Tested by Two Firms

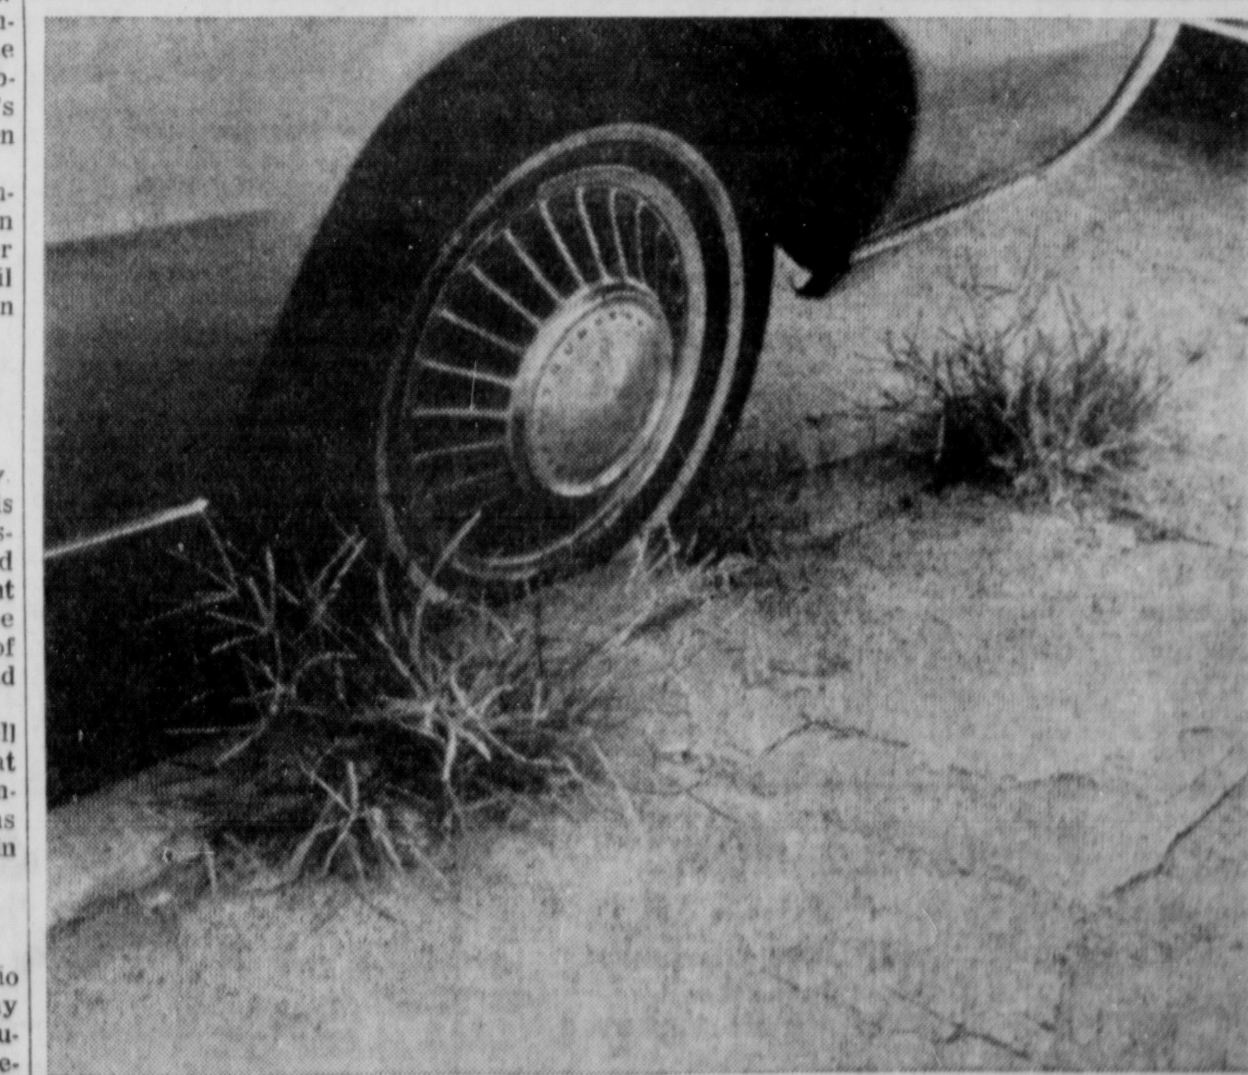

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tobacco-state senator says two major cigarette companies tested and found unsatisfactory cigarette filters developed by Robert L. Strickman.

One of the firms may take another look at the Strickman filter, now sponsored by Columbia University.

But that plan was left indefinite after Columbia President Grayson Kirk told senators Thursday the school has decided not to license any cigarette maker to use the filter until an extensive testing program is conducted "and the results prove entirely satisfactory."

The Senate inquiry into progress toward a safer cigarette is to conclude today with testimony from U.S. Surgeon General William Stewart and Dr. E. C. Culver Hammond of the American Cancer Society.

Just before passing the measure, the House overturned an earlier 145-141 vote and cut an additional $33 million in technical assistance funds. The Republican move won the second time around, 234 to 163.

Included among the major cuts were $150 million from the development loan program, $72 million from the alliance for progress and $25 million from the President's contingency fund.

Another $60 million for support of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was chopped out after members were told they already had authorized the money in a separate bill passed earlier.

Rockwell Is Slain By Sniper

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—George Lincoln Rockwell, head of the American Nazi party, was shot and killed today by a sniper, Arlington police said.

Police said Rockwell was in a parking lot across the street from the Nazi party headquarters in this Washington suburb when he was shot.

They said the sniper, who fired from the roof of a building, escaped.

Police said they were looking for a man dressed in a trench coat.

Police said the victim was struck in the chest in the 6000 block of Wilson Boulevard.

Arlington police officer John E. Mitchell said policemen who rushed to the scene reported the victim was Rockwell, 47, well known to most of the Arlington's police force.

Rockwell apparently was killed instantly by the sniper's bullet.

Arlington police were combing the mixed commercial and residential area for the unknown killer.

An ambulance called to the scene remained for 30 minutes while the victim's body lay on the ground following the noon shooting.

Rockwell frequently appeared around the country leading counter-demonstrations during civil rights marches.

He often was accompanied at such demonstrations by members of his party dressed in uniforms patterned after those of German Storm Troopers of the Hitler era.

Rockwell also was a frequent speaker before college audiences. His appearances usually brought out pickets and hecklers.

Dayton Newspaper Doesn't Publish

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—This city's morning newspaper, the Journal Herald, didn't publish today. A spokesman for the paper said an unauthorized work stoppage by pressmen caused the shutdown.

"The dispute centers on overtime pay," said R. C. Snyder, vice president and general manager of Dayton Newspapers, Inc., which publishes the Journal Herald and the afternoon Dayton Daily News.

Snyder said he didn't know if the situation would affect publication of today's Daily News. Separate chapels of the union deal with the jointly published newspapers.

MAYOR MAKES PLEA — Circleville Mayor Ben H. Gordon has asked that retail merchants in the downtown area "clean up the sidewalks and curbs fronting their places of business". A stroll through the downtown area reveals grass and weeds that have grown through the sidewalks and along curbs. Pictured above is an example of what the mayor has asked be remedied.

Draft Laws Explained

EDITOR'S NOTE: In an effort to create a greater public understanding of the laws and regulations governing the induction of personnel into the Armed Forces, the Selective Service System has prepared a series of pertinent questions and corresponding responses concerning provisions of the draft law.

Q. — In regard to college student deferments, is a junior college considered an institution of higher learning?

A. — Yes, if the credits given by the junior college are acceptable toward the granting of a baccalaureate degree by a college, university, or similar institution of learning.

Q. — What are the limitations, if any on how long a person can be deferred as an undergraduate college student?

A. — A registrant can be deferred in Class II-S as an undergraduate college student until he satisfies the requirement for his baccalaureate degree if completed within the normal and specified time, fails to pursue satisfactorily a full-time course of instruction, or becomes 24 years of age, whichever occurs first.

Q. — Will registrants who become fathers after the new selective service law becomes effective be deferred in Class III-A?

A. — Every case is considered on an individual basis hence an all-inclusive answer cannot be given. The only change made in eligibility requirements for deferment as a father (Class III-A) under the Military Selective Service Act of 1967, as compared with the former Universal Military Training and Service Act, is the addition of a restriction that registrants who are classified in Class II-S after the new selective service law went into effect (June 30, 1967) shall not be eligible for classification in Class III-A as fathers but may qualify on the basis of hardship to dependents.

Darby Cabins

Windows Hit With Large Calibre Gun

Circleville Police have received several reports since early Thursday of windows caused by gun shots.

The first incident involving the possibility of shooting with large calibre gun was discovered early Thursday morning when on routine patrol, an officer found a hole in the front door of Risch's Drug Store.

Thursday, a hole appearing to be a gun shot was discovered in a plate glass window at Super Duper Food Store, next to Risch's Drugs.

Also, Thursday, a city resident told officers that someone had shot two holes in the door of his car and had also fired into the front door of his home.

INVESTIGATION by Ptl. Jack Mills and Ptl. Dick Blaney recovered fragments of the bullet which struck the car. Mills said the projectile appeared to be about .38 calibre. The investigation is continuing.

McNamara Says Ho Won't Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara declared today no American bombing campaign short of attacks on North Vietnam's cities would alone "force Ho Chi Minh's regime into submission."

And, McNamara said, no one has proposed such a radical approach to ending the war.

In a detailed defense of the administration's bombing policies, the Pentagon chief said:

"There is little reason to believe that any level of conventional air or naval action, short of sustained and systematic bombing of the population centers, will deprive the North Vietnamese of their willingness to

Roundtown Players Meet Set Monday

Roundtown Players, community theater group, will meet 8 p. m. Monday in the Parish House of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, W. Mound St.

An executive meeting will precede the general membership meeting at 7 p. m., according to Dick Davis, president. All members and patrons are urged to attend.

Reports on the group's production of "Picnic" last week will be given and plans will be made for upcoming meetings.

It was also announced that plans will be made for a membership drive. Membership now stands at about 60 for the group which was organized here in April.

The meeting is open to all Pickaway County adults interested in theater.

TV Dealers

Organize Here

Circleville area TV servicing dealers have founded a new organization.

Television dealers who maintain their own service departments met earlier this week for an organizational meeting. Named president of the group, to be known as the Pickaway County Television Servicing Dealers Assn., was William Ballou.

Other officers are Paul Valentine, vice president; Carl Hawks, secretary; and Andrew Winell, treasurer. Membership at the outset of the organization consists of Carl Hawks Sound Center, Rhodes TV, Stonerock's TV and Appliances and Valentine's TV Sales and Service.

Purpose of the association, according to a spokesman, is for dealers to work together, with new service information between dealer and set manufacturer. "This will benefit servicing dealers and the customer who buys their products," the spokesman said, "and the association was founded due to the growing complexities of color TV and other merchandise on the market today."

2 Emergencies

Two persons received emergency aid Thursday at Berger Hospital. Both were released following treatment.

Cary Greco, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Greco, Martins Ferry, lacerated his right ankle on a rusty nail while playing in the barnyard at the home of his grandparents.

Wendy Randolph, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Randolph, New Jersey, fell from a monkey bar at Ted Lewis Park, fracturing her left wrist.

Circleville Man

Forfeits $40 Bond

James F. Starkey, 20, of 134 Town St., forfeited a $40 bond when he failed to appear in Circleville Municipal Court to answer a charge of speeding.

Starkey was cited Aug. 18 when he was apprehended for speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Ten out-of-county residents were cited to appear before acting Judge Allan Berger, forfeiting fines amounting to $226.

Dividends Increased By BancOhio

Increase of the regular quarterly dividend to 23 cents per share was approved by directors of BancOhio Corporation, 51 North High Street, D. R. Johnson, president, announced today. The dividend is payable Sept. 15 to shareholders of record Sept. 5. The Second National Bank of Circleville is a BancOhio affiliate.

The dividend increase reflects the record earnings during the first half of 1967. During the first two quarters of the year a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share was paid by the Corporation.

When the Corporation split its stock three shares for one on January 14, 1966, a dividend of 19 cents per share quarterly was established. On December 15, 1966, the quarterly dividend was increased to 20 cents per share. At the same time, the Corporation declared a four per cent stock dividend.

In the mid-year report, Johnson pointed out that earnings for the first half of 1967 amounted to $1.33 per share as compared with $1.15 for the same period of 1966.

BancOhio Corporation has 23 affiliated banks and 85 banking offices throughout central and southern Ohio. At mid-year the Corporation and the affiliated banks had total resources of $1,555,894,746 as compared with the mid-year 1966 resources of $1,022,602,184.

Johnson also announced the election of T. E. Penning as assistant vice president of the Corporation. Penning formerly served as vice president of the First National Bank of Tiffin, an affiliate of the Corporation.

Foreign Aid

Staved off were bids to pare $120 million from the support assistance program, and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress, the program conceived by President John F. Kennedy to aid Latin American countries.

But the Democratic leadership was turned back in an attempt to restore a second-year authorization for the Alliance for Progress, eliminated Wednesday by an amendment. Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-SC., of the Armed Services Committee sponsored the cut in NATO funds, approved 148 to 78.

The House also adopted by voice vote an amendment by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., to ban military aid of troops from nations that have broken diplomatic ties with the United States.

The move is aimed at those Arab countries which broke relations during the Middle East crisis. Some 425 soldiers from such Arab nations currently are receiving training in the United States.

The House also voted 236 to 157 to eliminate from the bill a section granting the government additional authority to sell arms to foreign nations, but did not put any curbs on existing authority for such sales.

The Senate version would revoke existing authority for the arms sales, defended by the administration as a key section of its foreign policy.

Excavation of Camelot Is Regarded as Success

SOUTH CADBURY, England (AP) — This year's initial efforts to uncover King Arthur's ancient kingdom of Camelot ended here Saturday, with the chief excavator scenting success.

"I'm very confident that we're on the right track—even more confident than when we started at Easter," says Leslie Alcock.

An official of the department of archeology at University College, Cardiff, Alcock heads a staff of 60 volunteers who began digging for Camelot early this year.

Backed by a research committee headed by the archaeologist Sir Mortimer Wheeler, the work will be long, possibly lasting three or four more years. The next period of digging will be spring 1968.

Of this impressive hill, overlooking the beautiful country of Somerset and Dorset, Sir Mortimer says: "Four centuries ago, King Henry VIII's appointed antiquary, John Leland, found that this place was known to local folk as Camelot. Sober-minded historians have hesitated to scorn the ancient belief that, about 500 A.D., there was a veritable Arthur, whether king or soldier of fortune. Now archeology has given fresh substance to this Arthurian Camelot."

Excavations are limited to summer because Alcock and his volunteers—most of them college students—have university careers.

"We have achieved the main objectives of our first year's work," said Alcock. These were to examine the fortifications of South Cadbury and to look at the interior of the site for the trace of buildings.

After examining a stretch of the uncovered wall, Alcock and his volunteers unearthed beneath it a rougher and older fortification.

"We are now able to show that this fortification belongs to the 6th century, that is to say the period of Arthur himself," he continued.

"We've made enough finds—particularly of pottery and metal objects—to tie down this date quite closely."

In the future he will examine the fortifications more closely. So far only small stretches have been uncovered.

in Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazer's and Henry J's rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep—utility vehicles of all kinds.

Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22, bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp.

Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible" and red tape. World War II was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipyards at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

Woman Sent To Reformatory

Juvenile Court Judge Guy

Cline has sentenced Versia Mae Thacker, Route 3, Mt. Sterling, to one year in Marysville Reformatory for Women.

Mrs. Thacker was charged with contributing to the delinquency and neglect of her minor children, ages 2 to 14 years.

Lacking proper care and supervision due to the alleged faults and habits of the mother, the five children have been placed in the temporary care and custody of the Child Welfare Board.

It was on the strike against the north-east rail line from Hanoi to China that the F105 was downed about 25 miles below the border.

Navy pilots reported heavy damage to buildings at Port Walt, which was attacked Monday for the first time in the war.

U.S. Marine fliers made one of their deepest raids into the Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river traffic from the capital south to the 17th parallel frontier dividing Vietnam.

In this area the cruiser Boston moved inshore to fire eight-inch guns at supply traffic around the city of Vinh. The Navy said it blew up 11 river barges and damaged seven more.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner fought a U. S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

Windows Hit With Large Calibre Gun

Circleville Police have received several reports since early Thursday of windows caused by gun shots.

The first incident involving the possibility of shooting with large calibre gun was discovered early Thursday morning when on routine patrol, an officer found a hole in the front door of Risch's Drug Store.

Thursday, a hole appearing to be a gun shot was discovered in a plate glass window at Super Duper Food Store, next to Risch's Drugs.

Also, Thursday, a city resident told officers that someone had shot two holes in the door of his car and had also fired into the front door of his home.

INVESTIGATION by Ptl. Jack Mills and Ptl. Dick Blaney recovered fragments of the bullet which struck the car. Mills said the projectile appeared to be about .38 calibre. The investigation is continuing.

Stock Market Heads Lower

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market headed lower for the fifth straight day in moderately active trading early this afternoon.

McNamara Says Ho Won't Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara declared today no American bombing campaign short of attacks on North Vietnam's cities would alone "force Ho Chi Minh's regime into submission."

And, McNamara said, no one has proposed such a radical approach to ending the war.

In a detailed defense of the administration's bombing policies, the Pentagon chief said:

"There is little reason to believe that any level of conventional air or naval action, short of sustained and systematic bombing of the population centers, will deprive the North Vietnamese of their willingness to

Roundtown Players Meet Set Monday

Roundtown Players, community theater group, will meet 8 p. m. Monday in the Parish House of St. Philip's Episcopal Church, W. Mound St.

An executive meeting will precede the general membership meeting at 7 p. m., according to Dick Davis, president. All members and patrons are urged to attend.

Reports on the group's production of "Picnic" last week will be given and plans will be made for upcoming meetings.

It was also announced that plans will be made for a membership drive. Membership now stands at about 60 for the group which was organized here in April.

The meeting is open to all Pickaway County adults interested in theater.

TV Dealers Organize Here

Circleville area TV servicing dealers have founded a new organization.

Television dealers who maintain their own service departments met earlier this week for an organizational meeting. Named president of the group, to be known as the Pickaway County Television Servicing Dealers Assn., was William Ballou.

Other officers are Paul Valentine, vice president; Carl Hawks, secretary; and Andrew Winell, treasurer. Membership at the outset of the organization consists of Carl Hawks Sound Center, Rhodes TV, Stonerock's TV and Appliances and Valentine's TV Sales and Service.

Purpose of the association, according to a spokesman, is for dealers to work together, with new service information between dealer and manufacturer. "This will benefit servicing dealers and the customer who buys their products," the spokesman said, "and the association was founded due to the growing complexities of color TV and other merchandise on the market today."

Berger Treats 2 Emergencies

Two persons received emergency aid Thursday at Berger Hospital. Both were released following treatment.

Cary Greco, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Greco, Martins Ferry, lacerated his right ankle on a rusty nail while playing in the barnyard at the home of his grandparents.

Wendy Randolph, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Randolph, New Jersey, fell from a monkey bar at Ted Lewis Park, fracturing her left wrist.

Circleville Man Forfeits $40 Bond

James F. Starkey, 20, of 134 Town St., forfeited a $40 bond when he failed to appear in Circleville Municipal Court to answer a charge of speeding.

Starkey was cited Aug. 18 when he was apprehended for speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Ten out-of-county residents were cited to appear before acting Judge Allan Berger, forfeiting fines amounting to $226.

Dividends Increased By BancOhio

Increase of the regular quarterly dividend to 23 cents per share was approved by directors of BancOhio Corporation, 51 North High Street, D. R. Johnson, president, announced today. The dividend is payable Sept. 15 to shareholders of record Sept. 5. The Second National Bank of Circleville is a BancOhio affiliate.

The dividend increase reflects the record earnings during the first half of 1967. During the first two quarters of the year a quarterly dividend of 20 cents per share was paid by the Corporation.

When the Corporation split its stock three shares for one on January 14, 1966, a dividend of 19 cents per share quarterly was established. On December 15, 1966, the quarterly dividend was increased to 20 cents per share. At the same time, the Corporation declared a four per cent stock dividend.

In the mid-year report, Johnson pointed out that earnings for the first half of 1967 amounted to $1.33 per share as compared with $1.15 for the same period of 1966.

BancOhio Corporation has 23 affiliated banks and 85 banking offices throughout central and southern Ohio. At mid-year the Corporation and the affiliated banks had total resources of $1,153,894,746 as compared with the mid-year 1966 resources of $1,022,602,184.

Johnson also announced the election of T. E. Penning as assistant vice president of the Corporation. Penning formerly served as vice president of the First National Bank of Tiffin, an affiliate of the Corporation.

Foreign Aid

Despite the deep cuts, administration forces weren't totally without success.

Staved off were bids to pare $120 million from the support assistance program, and an additional $70 million from the Alliance for Progress, the program conceived by President John F. Kennedy to aid Latin American countries.

But the Democratic leadership was turned back in an attempt to restore a second-year authorization for the Alliance for Progress, eliminated Wednesday by an amendment.

Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-SC., of the Armed Services Committee sponsored the cut in NATO funds, approved 148 to 78.

The House also adopted by voice vote an amendment by Rep. Benjamin S. Rosenthal, D-N.Y., to ban military aid of troops from nations that have broken diplomatic ties with the United States.

The move is aimed at those Arab countries which broke relations during the Middle East crisis. Some 425 soldiers from such Arab nations currently are receiving training in the United States.

The House also voted 236 to 157 to eliminate from the bill a section granting the government additional authority to sell arms to foreign nations, but did not put any curbs on existing authority for such sales.

The Senate version would revoke existing authority for the arms sales, defended by the administration as a key section of its foreign policy.

Excavation of Camelot Is Regarded as Success

SOUTH CADBURY, England (AP)—This year's initial efforts to uncover King Arthur's ancient kingdom of Camelot ended here Saturday, with the chief excavator scenting success.

"I'm very confident that we're on the right track—even more confident than when we started at Easter," says Leslie Alcock.

An official of the department of archeology at University College, Cardiff, Alcock heads a staff of 60 volunteers who began digging for Camelot early this year.

Backed by a research committee headed by the archaeologist Sir Mortimer Wheeler, the work will be long, possibly lasting three or four more years. The next period of digging will be spring 1968.

Of this impressive high hill, overlooking the beautiful counties of Somerset and Dorset, Sir Mortimer says: "Four centuries ago, King Henry VIII's appointed antiquary, John Leland, found that this place was known to local folk as Camelot. Sober-minded historians have hesitated to scorn the ancient belief that, about 500 A.D., there was a veritable Arthur, whether king or soldier of fortune. Now archeology has given fresh substance to this Arthurian Camelot."

Excavations are limited to summer because Alcock and his volunteers—most of them college students—have university careers.

"We have achieved the main objectives of our first year's work," said Alcock. These were to examine the fortifications of South Cadbury and to look at the interior of the site for the trace of buildings.

After examining a stretch of the uncovered wall, Alcock and his volunteers unearthed beneath it a rougher and older fortification.

"We are now able to show that this fortification belongs to the 6th century, that is to say the period of Arthur himself," he continued.

"We've made enough finds—particularly of pottery and metal objects—to tie down this date quite closely."

In the future he will examine the fortifications more closely. So far only small stretches have been uncovered.

Industrialist

In Honolulu with projected population of 60,000.

About the only venture in which Kaiser didn't achieve the success he sought was in making cars. For 10 years, 750,000 Kaisers, Kaiser-Frazers and Henry Js rolled off the assembly lines. But competition was too stiff. Kaiser withdrew to concentrate on the Jeep—utility vehicles of all kinds.

Henry Kaiser's success began in Lake Placid, N.Y., where he worked for nothing in a photographic shop on condition that if he doubled business he would get a half interest. The business tripled, he became a partner at 22, bought it out a year later and added three stores in Florida and Nassau.

Shasta Dam marked the beginning of Kaiser's industrial activity. His group lost the $36 million construction contract by $263,000. Although he had no plant, he submitted a bid on cement at 29 cents a barrel under that of a cement combine. He won the $7.7 million contract, built a cement plant at Permanente, Calif., and launched Kaiser Cement and Gypsum Corp.

Shipbuilding provided the big test for Kaiser, who mastered the "impossible" and red tape. World War II was under way and the Allies needed ships desperately. Britain called on Kaiser to build shipyards and 30 cargo ships.

At the peak, Kaiser and his associates operated 58 shipyards at seven yards. They built 1,490 ships, roughly 30 per cent of the American production of merchant shipping, during the war. Kaiser shipyards averaged one new ship a day and an aircraft carrier per week through prefabrication of major units and assembly-line fitting of parts.

Kaiser turned over active direction of the Kaiser Industries to his son Edgar and moved to Hawaii in 1954. He continued as board chairman to his death.

were against a rail yard just 13 miles below the Chinese border and the second raid of the week on North Vietnam's chief naval base at Port Wallut, 30 miles below the frontier. It was on the strike against the north-east rail line from Hanoi to China that the F105 was downed about 23 miles below the border.

Navy pilots reported heavy damage to buildings at Port Wallut, which was attacked Monday for the first time in the war.

U.S. Marine fliers made one of their deepest raids into the Communist defenses to hit the rail bridge at Hai Duong, midway between Hanoi and its port city of Haiphong.

About half the day's strikes were against targets from Hanoi north. The remaining attacks raked rail, road and river traffic from the capital south to the 17th parallel frontier dividing Vietnam.

In this area the cruiser Boston moved inshore to fire eight-inch guns at supply traffic around the city of Vinh. The Navy said it blew up 11 river barges and damaged seven more.

Along the demilitarized zone straddling the 17th parallel, a Communist machine gunner fought a U. S. Coast Guard cutter close inshore and raked it with fire. Two Coast Guardsmen were wounded but damage to the 82-foot boat was not revealed.

Grayson Kirk Tells Group Filter Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, said yesterday his cigarette company will be licensed to use the new filter developed by Robert L. Stickman until an extensive testing program is completed "and the results proved entirely satisfactory."

But Kirk also told a Senate Commerce subcommittee he has no doubt, on the basis of tests already conducted, that the filter effectively cuts the amount of tar and nicotine in cigarette smoke.

Columbia is the sponsor of the filter developed by Stickman, a chemist who donated a half interest in his invention to Columbia when he found himself unable to interest cigarette manufacturers.

The university could receive up to $100 million a year if the filter is purchased by cigarette companies.

Kirk testified it was a tradition of concern about public health and medicine that led the university to become interested in the invention.

He said tests to date "have confirmed the earlier reports of the efficacy of the filter in reducing tar and nicotine."

Kirk said Columbia is continuing to investigate the problems of taste and of the pressure required to investigate the problems of taste and of the pressure required to get smoke through the filter, which he called "effective components of consumer acceptability."

Kirk said Columbia intends to work and cooperate fully with the U.S. surgeon general in testing the filter.

"We are very hopeful that the Strickman filter will eventually prove to be a practicable and significant contribution to public health," he said. "I want to assure this committee that until a testing program — a very extensive program — is completed and the results prove entirely satisfactory, we will not license any cigarette company anywhere in the world."

Mennonites Denounce Vietnam War

LANSDALE, Pa. (AP) — The Mennonite General Conference, calling the Vietnam war "unwarranted and evil," has asked President Johnson to change U.S. policy.

It said in a resolution Wednesday, "American military action...in that land appears to us to be unwarranted and evil and in this case, evil requires a change of course, not escalation." The group passed the resolution at its biennial, four-day meeting attended by some 300 delegates from 12 states and three Canadian provinces, as well as 70 delegates from foreign countries.

The conference, which claims to be the largest Mennonite denomination, with 100,000 members, also asked the President to clear the way for it to take relief supplies to North Vietnam.

The Mennonite Central Committee currently is supplying South Vietnam with medical aid, the conference said.

Police Slayer Receives Life

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Ronald L. Browning, 21, was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison for first-degree murder in the jailbreak-slashing last Dec. 3 of Police Chief W. E. Markel.

A motion for a new trial was denied in Lawrence County Common Pleas Court.

Young American Negroes Are An Angry Generation

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, angry, volatile, and only 23, drew himself up to his full, imposing six-foot-plus and showered his Cambridge, Md., audience with bitter words.

"If this town don't come around, this town should be burnt down," he shouted. Less than 24 hours later, four square blocks of the small city had been reduced to scorched rubble, and National Guardsmen patrolled the streets.

In Detroit, a middle-aged Negro housewife looked from her front porch past 12 fire-blackened chimneys where homes for her neighbors had stood. She wondered aloud how the Negro teen-agers gathering on what was left of 12th Street—youthsters the same age as her two daughters—could call the destruction "beautiful."

A Negro policeman in Brooklyn, N.Y., glanced around a main intersection at the plywood-fronted stores that testified to nighttime violence and recalled what had impressed him:

"I saw a lot of people who were angry that night," he said. "All under 14."

Why should these youngsters, born into an era of concern over civil rights unmatched in the past century, be so angry?

"I wish I knew," the policeman said. "We try every way we know to reach them. We even bought them 25 mats so they could practice karate. But we don't reach them. They use us when they need us."

Scenes like this, together with countless others less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread last month to cities of all sizes across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of their friends and neighbors.

The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

But his name drew applause last month at a Black Power conference attended for the most part by moderates and militants who were both well educated and well-off financially.

"I hope you don't expect me to rap Rap," a pert Harlem girl of 18 told a reporter. "He's kinda crazy—but it's a feel-good crazy."

The mood extends into Negro colleges where administrators report black nationalist blocs, dormant since the days of Marcus Garvey in the 1920's, are growing.

In middle-class Negro homes, parents whose children consider them conservative sometimes echo the sentiments of the militants.

"America just must find means to implement all the glorious slogans it has voiced but not achieved in the centuries since its founding," one school-teacher wrote to her adult son last week.

"Minorities of all hues and stations are tired waiting. Maybe your grandchildren will be able to say the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag without the feeling of repulsion I get...as I say 'with liberty and justice for all'."

"Without question there is a new breed of Negro American youth," said Negro sociologist Dr. Kenneth Clark.

Those who are "assertive, insistent, demanding, volatile," are a minority, he said, but a minority which "cannot be ignored and which may well determine the future of American race relations."

The effects of those who are "assertive, insistent, demand-

All of Hollywood Seems To Be in Rome These Days

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

ROME (AP) — Notes from Hollywood-on-the-Tiber—
They're fighting the battle of Anzio again, but not where it happened. "We wanted to shoot the picture at the historic sites," says Edward Dmytryk, who is directing the high-budget Columbia-De Laurentiis "Anzio." "But we found out that it was impossible. Anzio is now a prosperous beach resort with TV aerials all over."

Grayson Kirk Tells Group Filter Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, said yesterday his cigarette company will be licensed to use the new filter developed by Robert L. Stickman until an extensive testing program is completed "and the results proved entirely satisfactory."

But Kirk also told a Senate Commerce subcommittee he has no doubt, on the basis of tests already conducted, that the filter effectively cuts the amount of tar and nicotine in cigarette smoke.

Columbia is the sponsor of the filter developed by Stickman, a chemist who donated a half interest in his invention to Columbia when he found himself unable to interest cigarette manufacturers.

The university could receive up to $100 million a year if the filter is purchased by cigarette companies.

Kirk testified it was a tradition of concern about public health and medicine that led the university to become interested in the invention.

He said tests to date "have confirmed the earlier reports of the efficacy of the filter in reducing tar and nicotine."

Kirk said Columbia is continuing to investigate the problems of taste and of the pressure required to investigate the problems of taste and of the pressure required to get smoke through the filter, which he called "effective components of consumer acceptability."

Kirk said Columbia intends to work and cooperate fully with the U.S. surgeon general in testing the filter.

"We are very hopeful that the Strickman filter will eventually prove to be a practicable and significant contribution to public health," he said. "I want to assure this committee that until a testing program — a very extensive program — is completed and the results prove entirely satisfactory, we will not license any cigarette company anywhere in the world."

Because of the change-of-identity plot, the coming production will offer the absurdity of men masquerading as women masquerading as men.

Gore Vidal has returned to his Roman residence to rest up after his criticism in speeches and writings against President Johnson and the Kennedys and to work on another novel — "pornographic this time."

The novelist is happy that his "Washington, D.C." remains high on the U.S. best-seller list, but says he has received no nibbles for a film sale.

Young American Negroes Are An Angry Generation

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, angry, volatile, and only 23, drew himself up to his full, imposing six-foot-plus and showed his Cambridge, Md., audience with bitter words.

"If this town don't come around, this town should be burnt down," he shouted. Less than 24 hours later, four square blocks of the small city had been reduced to scorched rubble, and National Guardsmen patrolled the streets.

In Detroit, a middle-aged Negro housewife looked from her front porch past 12 fire-blackened chimneys where homes for her neighbors had stood. She wondered aloud how the Negro teen-agers gathering on what was left of 12th Street — youngsters the same age as her two daughters — could call the destruction "beautiful."

A Negro policeman in Brooklyn, N.Y., glanced around a main intersection at the plywood-fronted stores that testified to nighttime violence and recalled what had impressed him:

"I saw a lot of people who were angry that night," he said. "All under 14."

Why should these youngsters, born into an era of concern over civil rights unmatched in the past century, be so angry?

"I wish I knew," the policeman said. "We try every way we know to reach them. We even bought them 25 mats so they could practice karate. But we don't reach them. They use us when they need us."

Scenes like this, together with countless others less violent, pointed up in recent weeks what some observers say is a new mood among young Negroes in the big city slums.

As violence spread last month to cities of all sizes across the nation in a pattern no one could predict, the big question was whether the angry young Negroes who dominated television screens and headlines really touched responsive chords in large numbers of their friends and neighbors.

The question can be answered definitively only as time passes, for the mood on the streets of Harlem and Hough, in the alleys of Detroit and Los Angeles, is constantly changing. But there are signs that unless enormous changes in slum conditions come quickly, the answer will be yes.

The bitter language of Rap Brown would have been dismissed five years ago, even in Harlem, as the inflammatory street-corner preaching of an extremist.

But his name drew applause last month at a Black Power conference attended for the most part by moderates and militants who were both well educated and well-off financially.

"I hope you don't expect me to rap Rap," a pert Harlem girl of 18 told a reporter. "He's kinda crazy—but it's a feel-good crazy."

The mood extends into Negro colleges where administrators report black nationalist blocs, dormant since the days of Marcus Garvey in the 1920's, are growing.

In middle-class Negro homes, parents whose children consider them conservative sometimes echo the sentiments of the militants.

"America just must find means to implement all the glorious slogans it has voiced but not achieved in the centuries since its founding," one school-teacher wrote to her adult son last week.

"Minorities of all hues and stations are tired waiting. Maybe your grandchildren will be able to say the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag without the feeling of repulsion I get... as I say 'with liberty and justice for all'."

"Without question there is a new breed of Negro American youth," said Negro sociologist Dr. Kenneth Clark.

Those who are "assertive, insistent, demanding, volatile," are a minority, he said, but a minority which "cannot be ignored and which may well determine the future of American race relations."

The effects of those who are "assertive, insistent, demanding, volatile" are already seen—and worried about—from California, where a group of young Negroes carrying guns marched into the state legislative chambers, to the Howard University rebellion in Washington over administration guidelines on racial matters.

It took youth patrols in Boston, Dayton, and Tampa earlier this year to smother the fires of racial unrest fanned by other youths.

Mayor Frank A. Sedita of Buffalo acknowledged that no adults could speak for the angry youth of his city when he agreed in June to a two-hour grievance session with 200 Negro teenagers in a YMCA auditorium.

Young Negro women with their hair cropped in the "natural" unstraightened style associated with Africa can be seen all over Harlem any day. The style is slowly spreading to other Negro slums, along with African-derived styles of dress. African culture centers and Afro-American bookstores, long fixtures in Harlem, are springing up in places like Buffalo.

They report a thriving business in the works of Marcus Garvey, the late Malcolm X, nationalist poet and playwright LeRoi Jones, Franz Fanon, an anti-colonial Algerian doctor, and the speeches of Stokely Carmichael.

The tendency to question fundamental American values is seen as important by Donald R. Hopkins, 30, a Negro, assistant dean of students at the University of California at Berkeley.

"They do not accept the glib assumption of the older civil rights leaders that the fate of Negro and white Americans is inextricably intertwined and that the future of the Negro is the future of America," he has written.

"Unlike students of a decade ago, Negro youths of this generation are not preoccupied with racial integration as such... they are primarily concerned with the health and safety of black communities... they don't dig Whitney Young, they don't dig Roy Wilkins, and until he came out strongly against the war in Vietnam they didn't dig Martin Luther King..."

"Their heroes, or intellectual progenitors, to be more exact, are (W. E. B.) DuBois, Garvey, Malcolm X and Carmichael." Other authorities say that Hopkins' words apply not so much to the masses of Negro youth today as to the potential Negro leaders of tomorrow.

Mennonites Denounce Vietnam War

LANSDALE, Pa. (AP) — The Mennonite General Conference, calling the Vietnam war "unwarranted and evil," has asked President Johnson to change U.S. policy.

It said in a resolution Wednesday, "American military action... in that land appears to us to be unwarranted and evil and in this case, evil requires a change of course, not escalation." The group passed the resolution at its biennial, four-day meeting attended by some 300 delegates from 12 states and three Canadian provinces, as well as 70 delegates from foreign countries.

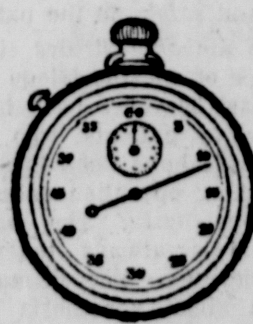

The conference, which claims to be the largest Mennonite denomination, with 100,000 members, also asked the President to clear the way for it to take relief supplies to North Vietnam.

The Mennonite Central Committee currently is supplying South Vietnam with medical aid, the conference said.

An Arab Summit

The Arab nations are looking forward to a true summit meeting among themselves, now that Egypt has proclaimed a cessation of hostilities in Yemen, and Saudi Arabia seems inclined to agree.

The question of most interest is what spirit will prevail at such a summit. Undoubtedly Nasser of Egypt sees it as a chance for him once again to be the militant leader. If he did not hope to gain a great deal for himself and for Egypt, he scarcely would have given up on the long-drawn out Yemeni war.

Retreating in Yemen will also curtail Nasser's plans to take control in South Arabia when that British protectorate becomes independent next year.

An Arab summit meeting might, however, go in an entirely different direction from that Nasser wants. His

Arab neighbors never were totally united behind him.

During the Arab foreign ministers meeting, one delegate sharply called for an end to blaming the United States and Britain for the loss of the war with Israel, and to start putting the blame where it belonged, on the Arabs themselves.

Two nations, Iraq and Morocco have called for a resumption of Arab oil exports to the United States and Britain. Before the Israel - Arab fighting, the Arabs considered their oil their biggest ace in any relationship with the west.

The last two months have showed them that the west can manage without their oil. Even Europe, so dependent upon Arab oil, is suffering no shortage. But curtailment of sales has cut sharply into the income of Arab countries.

It does beat all. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has been around for a long time. Before the advent of Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown and the rest of the "black power" boys, it never had it in for Jews. Indeed, it gladly accepted the help of such sensitive young Jewish people as Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, who were murdered in Mississippi on an SNCC mission.

That was just the day before yesterday, as time runs in our benighted age. Today SNCC has gone anti-Semitic. Nineteen years after the founding of Israel, it has chosen to denounce those "famous European Jews, the Rothschilds," for "conspiracy with the British to create the 'state of Israel.'" Query: if SNCC was truly perturbed about the 1948 Israeli - Arab confrontation, why didn't it say so long ago?

Curiously - or maybe it is not so curious - the expression of SNCC's new anti-Jewish racism was timed to the very week to coincide with the eruption of an openly virulent anti-Semitism in Soviet Russia. The Soviet press is all "turned on" about alleged Israeli atrocities in the recent Middle East war. There have been anti-Jewish riots in Tashkent. And a dispatch from London tells about the murder of the rabbi of Sukhumi, a town in the Caucasus, who was hanged by his feet like Mussolini.

SNCC would naturally deny getting any "line" from Moscow, where cultural and racial anti-Semitism, long a part of the Soviet climate, has suddenly become political anti-Semitism. In a lame attempt to clarify himself, Ralph Featherstone, the program head of SNCC, has tried to differentiate between Jews in general and "Jewish oppressors" in particular. But he jumps right back to a blanket indictment when he says "it is the Jews who are doing the exploiting of black people in the ghettos. They own the little corner groceries that gouge our people . . . And there is a parallel between this and the oppression of Arabs by the Israelis."

Okay, if "parallels" are to be invoked, there is a "parallel" between SNCC's "line" on the Jews and Moscow's "line" on the same. There is a "parallel," too, between SNCC's and the Kremlin's newly emergent political anti-Semitism and that of Red China. There is even a further startling parallel with the arguments expressed by the National States Rights Party, a white supremacist organization which is now pro-Arab as well as anti-Semitic.

The recently created Council on Communist Anti-Semitism Policy and Practice, with headquarters at 79 Madison Avenue in New York City, has thoroughly documented the upsurge of Red Chinese anti-Semitism. For example, the editorials in Mao Tse-tung's "People's Daily" keep up a rat-tat-tat fire on Israel as "a running dog of U. S. imperialism."

"Aggressor," "stooge," "flunkie," "lackey," "jackal" and "bandit" are some other nice words used by the Red Chinese to describe the Israeli government. Ahmed Shukairy, the president of the Arab "Palestine Liberation Organization," has a definite understanding with Red China Premier Chou En-lai, who allowed the PLO to set up a permanent mission in Peking for the transmission of Chinese weapons to Arab "liberators" in the Gaza Strip.

Since there is no Jewish community in Red China, it is hard to see why Peking should care one way or the other about anti-Semitism. If staff cooperation among Leftists must be ruled out as the explanation of recent concurrences, it must be assumed that the "united front from below" works as a matter of simple conditioned reflexes.

This column doesn't believe in seeing conspiracies under the bed. But there is obviously an "open conspiracy," to use H. G. Wells's old phrase, among many Leftists today to take it out on the Jews. The Nazi practice turns out to be the Communist practice. This is hardly surprising when you consider that fifty members of the Communist East German parliament, as of the most recent available count made by the foreign editor of the Jewish Chronicle in England were once members of the Nazi party. Communists will do anything to gain their ends, and what's a little genocide among Commie friends? As for SNCC, we can take the word of its Ralph Featherstone that it isn't following a "Soviet line." But Mr. Featherstone can't say that his organization isn't running a "parallel" course on the Jews to that of both Moscow and Peking.

So You Want To Be Normal!

NEW YORK (AP) - And what is your problem, sir?

Oh, I see. The world is so crazy and mixed up today that you are beginning to wonder whether you're really normal yourself?

Well, sir, a lot of people are in the same plight. In itself it's a pretty encouraging sign. But, just to be sure, would you like to take our painless five-minute sanity test?

Good. It's quite simple. Just lie down, close your eyes, and consider how you would answer the following questions:

When you have to listen to a long, dull after-dinner speech, do you find your mind wandering off and starting to think about money or sex?

Do you think that if you were just wealthy enough you could get any girl in the world to fall in love with you?

Does it sometimes annoy you that the guy next door to you not only has a newer car and bigger power lawnmower than you but also a better-looking wife?

Now and then, are you swept by a feeling of uncertainty because the hippies you see, even though they spend their lives laughing, scratching themselves and smelling flowers, seem to be having more fun than you are?

When you rake up the first leaves of autumn, does a wind immediately spring up and blow the leaves from your neighbor's yard into your yard?

Do you have a disgruntled feeling that "somebody out there" must be mad at you, because nobody seems to have the woe that you have?

If you and three friends went for a hike through the woods, are you the one who would come down with a bad case of poison ivy?

Do you live beyond your income and owe more than you can afford?

Does it seem like it has been forever since life surprised you with an unexpected pleasure?

Are you convinced that your

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A ROLLS-ROYCE pulled up in front of a Fifth Avenue bookshop the other evening and the chauffeur announced sheepishly, "My lady wants a couple of new murder stories committed by nice people."

George Plimpton, bon vivant, all-American ladies' man, and author of that superb book about professional football, "Paper Lion," is also the long-time editor of one of the best and financially stable of the "literary little" magazines, The Paris Review. A list of the temporary editors of this sprightly publication would include everybody from million-dollar-a-picture movie stars to off-springs of the world's richest and most powerful families. Typical editor: Jane Fonda, of whom Plimpton recalls, "Never did we have an employee more hard-working and industrious—for about a week."

Having played football with the Detroit Lions, baseball with two major-league teams, and tennis with Pancho Gonzalez, Plimpton is now priming himself for a go at big-time hockey with the Red Wings, and an involvement at the cymbals and triangles the Philharmonic Orchestra. Furthermore, there isn't a pretty girl in New York—and that includes my wife—who doesn't rate him the most attractive bachelor still on the loose.

What a man!

"I'd move Heaven and earth to break 100," sighed golf-dub Wimpfinger. "Try Heaven," advised his step-father. "You've already moved enough earth."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

It is ironic that the bathtub, within the "safe confines of the home," is still such a hazard. The number of accidents that occur are almost staggering. Broken hips, fractures of the ankle and a host of other injuries incapacitate many people for many months, because carelessness is so universal in the bathtub.

The fact that you have gotten away with it for such a long time does not mean that the threat is not a daily one. Few people take the time to inspect the bathtub and the shower long enough to observe the contoured slippery sides.

Non-slip mats may not be aesthetically correct in a French provincial bathroom, but neither is a fractured hip. Supporting handles may distort the correct line of a well-decorated bathroom but it is worthless to one who spends the next six weeks in a cast. Loose tiles and glass that shatters can be a potential hazard.

Sometimes the well-regulated shower suddenly becomes burningly hot if a neighbor is using some water. Jumping out of the range of the shower is responsible for all kinds of accidents.

There are a few simple rules which may be of value:

(1) Don't allow the elderly, the infirm or a weakened patient to take a bath or a shower without supervision.

(2) Don't use a telephone while you are still immersed in water.

(3) Don't handle electrical appliances or equipment with wet hands.

(4) Avoid glass containers of shampoos and bath oils.

(5) Hold on to something while stepping out of a bath. Wet, slippery feet bring on catastrophes.

(6) Do not allow children or elderly to lock the doors. Arrange for a bell system when they emerge from the bath.

(7) Use non-slip mats and linings.

(8) Have a trial run for accident prevention to find and later eliminate the home-made accidents.

Many months of invalidism can be eliminated with a detailed safety inspection of the bathtub.

Some patients are under the impression that they have the choice as to whether an operation is performed under a local or a general anesthetic. Only rarely is this true.

The choice of an anesthetic is not a haphazard one. Usually the decision is made after consultation between the doctor, the surgeon and the person who is to give the anesthesia.

Many factors are taken into consideration before that decision is made. The condition of the heart, lungs, blood pressure, urine, blood and length of the operation are only some of the deciding factors in the choice of anesthesia.

The emotional state of the patient, his tensions and anxiety are also important in that decision.

The ultimate aim of all anesthesia, local or general, is to insure the maximum comfort and safety to the patient.

The amazing strides in the science of anesthesiology during the past 30 years have brought safety to patients who might otherwise have been threatened by a long operation under general anesthesia. The patient's request is always taken into consideration. Yet ultimate decision about anesthesia cannot possibly depend on his wishes.

Yosemite National Park is California's foremost scenic attraction, the National Geographic says. The park, about the size of Rhode Island, draws some 1,600,000 visitors each year.

An Arab Summit

The Arab nations are looking forward to a true summit meeting among themselves, now that Egypt has proclaimed a cessation of hostilities in Yemen, and Saudi Arabia seems inclined to agree.

The question of most interest is what spirit will prevail at such a summit. Undoubtedly Nasser of Egypt sees it as a chance for him once again to be the militant leader. If he did not hope to gain a great deal for himself and for Egypt, he scarcely would have given up on the long-drawn out Yemeni war.

Retreating in Yemen will also curtail Nasser's plans to take control in South Arabia when that British protectorate becomes independent next year.

An Arab summit meeting might, however, go in an entirely different direction from that Nasser wants. His

Arab neighbors never were totally united behind him.

During the Arab foreign ministers meeting, one delegate sharply called for an end to blaming the United States and Britain for the loss of the war with Israel, and to start putting the blame where it belonged, on the Arabs themselves.

Two nations, Iraq and Morocco have called for a resumption of Arab oil exports to the United States and Britain. Before the Israel - Arab fighting, the Arabs considered their oil their biggest ace in any relationship with the west.

The last two months have showed them that the west can manage without their oil. Even Europe, so dependent upon Arab oil, is suffering no shortage. But curtailment of sales has cut sharply into the income of Arab countries.

It does beat all. The Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee has been around for a long time. Before the advent of Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown and the rest of the "black power" boys, it never had it in for Jews. Indeed, it gladly accepted the help of such sensitive young Jewish people as Andrew Goodman and Michael Schwerner, who were murdered in Mississippi on an SNCC mission.

That was just the day before yesterday, as time runs in our benighted age. Today SNCC has gone anti-Semitic. Nineteen years after the founding of Israel, it has chosen to denounce those "famous European Jews, the Rothschilds," for "conspiracy with the British to create the 'state of Israel.'" Query: if SNCC was truly perturbed about the 1948 Israeli - Arab confrontation, why didn't it say so long ago?

Curiously — or maybe it is not so curious — the expression of SNCC's new anti-Jewish racism was timed to the very week to coincide with the eruption of an openly virulent anti-Semitism in Soviet Russia. The Soviet press is all "turned on" about alleged Israeli atrocities in the recent Middle East war. There have been anti-Jewish riots in Tashkent. And a dispatch from London tells about the murder of the rabbi of Sukhumi, a town in the Caucasus, who was hanged by his feet like Mussolini.

SNCC would naturally deny getting any "line" from Moscow, where cultural and racial anti-Semitism, long a part of the Soviet climate, has suddenly become political anti-Semitism. In a lame attempt to clarify himself, Ralph Featherstone, the program head of SNCC, has tried to differentiate between Jews in general and "Jewish oppressors" in particular. But he jumps right back to a blanket indictment when he says "it is the Jews who are doing the exploiting of black people in the ghettos. They own the little corner groceries that gouge our people."

And there is a parallel between this and the oppression of Arabs by the Israelis. Okay, if "parallels" are to be invoked, there is a "parallel" between SNCC's "line" on the Jews and Moscow's "line" on the same. There is a "parallel," too, between SNCC's and the Kremlin's newly emergent political anti-Semitism and that of Red China. There is even a further startling parallel with the arguments expressed by the National States Rights Party, a white supremacist organization which is now pro-Arab as well as anti-Semitic.

The recently created Council on Communist Anti-Semitism Policy and Practice, with headquarters at 79 Madison Avenue in New York City, has thoroughly documented the upsurge of Red Chinese anti-Semitism. For example, the editorials in Mao Tse-tung's "People's Daily" keep up a rat-tat-tat fire on Israel as "a running dog of U. S. imperialism."

"Aggressor," "stooge," "flunkie," "lackey," "jackal" and "bandit" are some other nice words used by the Red Chinese to describe the Israeli government. Ahmed Shukairy, the president of the Arab "Palestine Liberation Organization," has a definite understanding with Red China Premier Chou En-lai, who allowed the PLO to set up a permanent mission in Peking for the transmission of Chinese weapons to Arab "liberators" in the Gaza Strip.

Since there is no Jewish community in Red China, it is hard to see why Peking should care one way or the other about anti-Semitism. If staff cooperation among Leftists must be ruled out as the explanation of recent concurrences, it must be assumed that the "united front from below" works as a matter of simple conditioned reflexes.

This column doesn't believe in seeing conspiracies under the bed. But there is obviously an "open conspiracy," to use H. G. Wells's old phrase, among many Leftists today to take it out on the Jews. The Nazi practice turns out to be the Communist practice. This is hardly surprising when you consider that fifty members of the Communist East German parliament, as of the most recent available count made by the foreign editor of the Jewish Chronicle in England were once members of the Nazi party. Communists will do anything to gain their ends, and what's a little genocide among Commie friends? As for SNCC, we can take the word of its Ralph Featherstone that it isn't following a "Soviet line." But Mr. Featherstone can't say that his organization isn't running a "parallel" course on the Jews to that of both Moscow and Peking.

MONDAY
AMERICAN LEGION, AUXILIARY, 8 p. m. in post home.
HELPING HAND CLASS OF Pontious EUB Church, 8 p. m., home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erwin, Route 3.

en was founded in 1919 to help meet the need for mobilized woman power. To support a constant program of effective living for women in a business or profession, these objectives were set: to elevate the standards for women in business and in the professions; to promote the interest of business and professional women; to bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women of the United States and to extend opportunities to business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

By Federation endeavors some accomplishments improving the status of women have been: greater acceptance of women workers in many fields; jury service for women in most states; equal pay for women and men doing comparable work; equal opportunities of education and training for women and men in professional, commercial, and industrial careers; defeat of legislation discriminating against married women workers; enactment of legislation giving married women citizenship independent of their husbands; election and appointment of many qualified women to policy making posts; furtherance of training through scholarships and grants; promotion of research into career problems, and provision of an environment in which leadership skills have been developed and nurtured.

The National Federation of BPW Clubs is noted for sponsoring and supporting legislation and administering action which should be of vital interest to all employed women.

Roundtown GC Meeting Held

TWO SHOTGUNS and ammunition found in their car got these curfew violaters in this position in New Haven, Conn., where racial strife resulted in 345 arrests in three nights.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Never a nasty word between them. They're playing it cool. But the relationship between President Johnson and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy looks cool enough to be freezing.

The New York Democrat has been careful not to make any frontal assaults on Johnson and has even praised him, perhaps to pacify the President in case he thought Kennedy was out to get his job.

But to Johnson, always sensitive to criticism, having Kennedy around must be like being nudged by a hot poker. The senator has been generous with his criticism of the Johnson administration and with advice, too.

In 1965, less than a year after going to the Senate but while his fans were thinking of him as a candidate for something in presidential 1968, Kennedy went out of his way to brush off the idea.

First, and he repeated it, he said he had no intention of running for the vice presidency in 1968 (Johnson had banned him from that berth in the 1964 elections), only expected to seek re-election to the Senate in 1970, and had no plans to seek the presidency in 1972.

Later he said he would support Johnson for re-election in 1968, adding: "I have great admiration for what the President has done here in the United States and in our relationships with countries overseas."

"I have great respect for him and I think we agree on by far the larger percentage of major issues... he has been an outstanding President... and I look forward to campaigning for him in 1968."

But while Johnson has gone to great pains to get the South Vietnamese to hold elections Sept. 3, Kennedy recently said those elections looked like a fraud to him.

Over a year ago Kennedy said he favored elections in Vietnam but suggested international observers should be there to see what happens. Kennedy wasn't the only recent critic on the elections. Now Johnson is sending observers.

Critics, and Kennedy was one of them, jumped all over Johnson for sending U.S. troops into the Dominican Republic in 1965 when the President said he feared Communists might try to take over.

Kennedy said he thought such a move would damage relations with the rest of Latin America. Later he said the Dominican elections which this country sponsored "rectified the damage."

Kennedy has been a constant critic of Johnson's handling of the war in Vietnam, and a constant adviser.

He said in 1965 Johnson should consult with Congress before sending any more troops there; urged the cease-fire at Christmastime that year he extended (Johnson extended it for a month afterward); was critical of the "escalation" of the war; called for a halt in the bombing coupled with peace negotiations within a week (this was disregarded); and thought the Viet Cong should take part in the peace talks (the administration has never agreed to that yet).

Last year Kennedy complained the administration proposal to cut funds for domestic programs made him wonder if the nation had learned anything from the Negro riots. By way of comment on that the White House said Johnson was doing all he could within the limits of "realism."

And Kennedy has made a number of proposals: that the United States develop an Asian policy "based on the reality and diversity of today's Asia"; that the United States drop its opposition to the admission of Red China to the United Nations, on the condition that Nationalist China be allowed to keep its seat there; that this country double its foreign aid to developing nations over the next few years; that there should be a massive rebuilding program in the nation's slums, complaining that more has not been done.

After all this Johnson probably doesn't feel that Kennedy, who gets great glee from shooting fast water in a raft, has done much to make him feel gleeful.

Man Is Arrested For Running Still

CLEVELAND (AP) — An investigation of the theft of 1,700 pounds of sugar over a year's time has led to the arrest of 49-year-old Theodor Kennedy for operation of a still in the basement of his East Side home.

Detectives said they had been investigating the theft from the plant of Strong-Cobb-Arner, Inc. They said they went to Kennedy's home Wednesday with a search warrant and found 200 pounds of sugar, the still, 30 gallons of mash and seven gallons of liquor in the basement.

Presbyterian Dies

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Funeral services for the Rev. James L. Hill, past moderator of the Ohio Synod of the United Presbyterian Church, will be conducted in Zanesville at a date to be announced. The 47-year-old former pastor died Thursday of an apparent heart attack while on vacation with his family on Toms River, N.J.

16 Are Charged With Rigging Price of Stock

NEW YORK (AP) — Sixteen persons were charged in a federal grand jury indictment Wednesday with rigging the price of the stock of Hercules Gallion Products, Inc., Gallion, Ohio.

The company manufactures dump truck bodies and hoists. The indictment, charging conspiracy, fraud and manipulation, alleged that rigging cost investors in Hercules Gallion $4 million.

The defendants were accused of driving the price of the stock from $6.75 a share to $14.50 between December 1965 and February 1966 through manipulation.

The stock closed at $5.87 Tuesday.

BPW National Federation Aids Women's Interests

EDITORS NOTE-- Following is the third article presenting information on the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs Inc. It is part of a series giving detailed accounts of local area women's clubs and organizations.

Current statistics reveal that 28 million women are members of the Nation's working force and are striving to serve their communities, states and nation, in civic and cultural programs. It is also currently estimated that the number of gainfully employed women will exceed 33 million in 1975. Women's interest and abilities are exercised in 40,000 different job classifications.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women was founded in 1919 to help meet the need for mobilized woman power. To support a constant program of effective living for women in a business or profession, these objectives were set: to elevate the standards for women in business and in the professions; to promote the interest of business and professional women; to bring about a spirit of cooperation among business and professional women of the United States and to extend opportunities to business and professional women through education along lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

By Federation endeavors some accomplishments improving the status of women have been: greater acceptance of women workers in many fields; jury service for women in most states; equal pay for women and men doing comparable work; equal opportunities of education and training for women and men in professional, commercial, and industrial careers; defeat of legislation discriminating against married women workers; enactment of legislation giving married women citizenship independent of their husbands; election and appointment of many qualified women to policy making posts; furtherance of training through scholarships and grants; promotion of research into career problems, and provision of an environment in which leadership skills have been developed and nurtured.

The National Federation of BPW Clubs is noted for sponsoring and supporting legislation and administering action which should be of vital interest to all employed women.

THE JOY OF LIVING

THE CHURCH FOR ALL

ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake.
(2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ever notice how some people associate the joy of living with moments of care-free relaxation, while others seem to find equal happiness in both work and leisure?
Which seems most natural? Was man created with the capacity for finding happiness in his spare time only or was he endowed with a genius for reaping joy from both work and play?
Before anyone surrenders to the cynicism of the first theory, he owes it to himself, his neighbors and his God to give the second a real try.
For centuries the Church has been helping men to discover the deep and lasting joy of purposeful living. When your life has a purpose, linked to the Purpose of God... then every day reveals anew the joy of living!

Thoughts on Big Town
BENTON, Ky. (AP) — After a friend returned from his first trip to New York, John Lovett asked him what he thought about the Big Town.

The friend bubbled with enthusiasm over the shows, movies, museums and other attractions then added:

"I was so confused by all the things to do that I just went out and had my shoes half-sold."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ever notice how some people associate the joy of living with moments of care-free relaxation, while others seem to find equal happiness in both work and leisure?

Which seems most natural? Was man created with the capacity for finding happiness in his spare time only or was he endowed with a genius for reaping joy from both work and play?

Before anyone surrenders to the cynicism of the first theory, he owes it to himself, his neighbors and his God to give the second a real try.

For centuries the Church has been helping men to discover the deep and lasting joy of purposeful living. When your life has a purpose, linked to the Purpose of God... then every day reveals anew the joy of living!

Roman Catholic Image Is Slowly Transformed

TORONTO (AP) — Almost two years after the close of the Vatican Ecumenical Council, Roman Catholicism has still barely scratched the surface in its attempt to change its image and outlook.

That situation emerged clearly today as an international congress on the theology of church renewal went into its final day.

The best theologians in Catholicism have been pouring forth since last Sunday, in more than 40 papers running into hundreds of thousands of words, their ideas and reflections on what must be done to make Catholicism meaningful in the current secular age.

"When the theologians come down from their ivory towers they really have something to say," commented a pastor sitting among the 2,900 participants listening to six cardinals and 45 theological scholars at the University of Toronto campus.

The congress has no official power. It has proclaimed no doctrines and found no new dogmas. Instead the theologians taking part have laid down a series of "should" and "must" ideals—some of them startling even to their progressive-minded listeners—on what the Catholic Church has to do to make its mission of preaching Christ in the modern world count.

The theological experts drew this picture of the current Church:

—The 1962-65 Vatican Ecumenical Council, which triggered the renewal drive, posed many questions that had not been thought about before in the half-billion-member Church and still are not clearly grasped.

—Many learned Catholics feel uneasy and uncertain in the face of all the challenges thrown up to old ways of thinking and acting.

—The broad body of average Catholics still contains millions who cannot get rid of the old concept of a structure that imposes from above, requiring nothing but compliance from those below.

The theologians outlined a Church they feel must be the Catholicism of tomorrow. In terms of theology and guiding principles, it took this ideal form:

—Theology will be more concerned with man as a builder of this world than with the classical themes that dwell only on heaven, the afterlife and the historical God.

—Pluralism of social-economic ideas and religious beliefs will be accepted by Catholicism as due to man through justice and religious freedom, apart from the continuing Christian unity effort.

—Theology will rely more on the other intellectual sciences in working out its concepts and seeking fresh interpretations of the Scriptures.

—The Church will concentrate more on the major social issues of the day, with practical instruction coming from local bishops rather than general statements coming from the Vatican.

—The Church will listen carefully to what the world has to say on nontheological matters, as the Church seeks to formulate continually adjusting attitudes.

"There has not been a communication regularly of a theology to the layman," remarked Bishop Remi de Roo of Victoria, Canada, one of the principal congress organizers.

"We have to learn to speak and think in terms that modern men can understand. I think it is simply part of our tradition to do otherwise."

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dennis Weaver, with one hit and some misses behind him, is returning to television this season, playing a husband and father in an early evening CBS series whose title role is enacted by a large, black bear.

"Gentle Ben," however, is promised as an adventure series with a difference. Even though it comes off the production lines of Ivan Tors, who gave us Judy, the chimp; Clarence, the cross-eyed lion of "Daktari," and Flipper, the superdog.

Weaver insists that Ben, 650 pounds of tractability and friendliness, will be treated in the scripts as a family pet, unendowed with human sensitivities.

"No one in this series," said Weaver, "will ever get into a mess and say, 'I'm hurt, Ben, go get dad.'"

"Gentle Ben" follows "Lassie" on the network's Sunday evening schedule—and Lassie has been getting dad, the rangers or—most often—doing the rescuing herself, for 13 years without a goof. The two shows should provide an interesting study in contrast.

Weaver made an indelible impression on television audiences during the nine years he played Chester, Marshal Dillon's limping, drawing, worrying sidekick in "Gunsmoke." After he quit the show, he went through a difficult period attempting to shake himself of the Chester identity.

"It was natural to be identified that strongly," he said. "The character was extremely visual, which puts the actor into a pigeon-hole—particularly since Chester has stayed in view on 'Gunsmoke' reruns."

After that he made a couple of pilots, neither of which worked out, a short-lived series called "Kentucky Jones," and since then has been busy in motion pictures.

In "Gentle Ben," shot in Florida, Weaver plays a game warden and father of an 8-year-old boy with a pet bear. Ben is an American bear who was raised as a pet by a family in Minnesota and is as tame—and gentle—as the ordinary family dog, Weaver says. However, he is handled by five trainers, three of them on the set with him at all times.

"He's friendly with everyone," said Weaver, "everyone who will feed him, that is. Bears

Sheriff Says 3 'Suicides' Were Homicide

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Geauga County Sheriff Louis A. Robusky and Detective Lt. William Strawbridge say that of the last seven deaths ruled suicide in the county three should have been ruled homicide.

Robusky said there has not been a ruling for homicide in the county since he took office in 1960.

Dr. Alton Behm, county coroner, said that the $6,000-a-year coroner's job is part-time and that facilities are not adequate for thorough autopsies. Dr. Behm said there has not been enough new evidence turned up to warrant changing the suicide rulings.

Prosecutor Gene Henry said that "our facilities for autopsies are basic, to say the least. In unusual cases, we send a corpse to the Cuyahoga County coroner. Dr. Behm is only a physician and no one qualified in criminology will run in the elections."

Robusky said, "our only alternative is to go to the prosecutor, but he relies heavily on the suicide ruling."

Strawbridge said he has investigated three of the deaths ruled suicide and believes that it was impossible for persons to kill themselves in such ways.

Strawbridge said suicide was ruled in the death of one woman who was stabbed and beaten; another was found in her car with no evidence of the motor running, but death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning, and a Vietnam veteran was found shot to death.

PAUL TREADS A PERILOUS PATHWAY

Acts 21:1-23:11.

By R. H. RAMSEY

FOLLOWING the uproar in Ephesus, Paul returned to Macedonia, where he spent some time before beginning his journey to Jerusalem for the Feast of Pentecost. While his traveling companions crossed the Aegean by a more direct route from Corinth to Syria, Paul, learning of a plot against his life, journeyed north to Philippi and embarked there. They met in Troas, and sailed down the coast of Asia for Syria, stopping at major seaports as they went.

In Miletus, Paul met with the Ephesian elders. He told them he expected persecution in Jerusalem and that, in all probability, he would never see them again. In a sad, impressive farewell address, Paul warned of perils facing the Ephesian church, emphasized the need for keeping the Word of God, strengthening the church and nourishing the little flock of believers. After commending them to God and to the word of His grace, Paul continued his journey to Jerusalem.

While his ship was unloading its cargo at Tyre, Paul spent the week with the Christians there. Having been much closer to the political and religious pulse of the country than had

Paul, they tried to dissuade him from going to Jerusalem where nothing but trouble awaited.

Almost from the time Paul began planning this trip the Holy Spirit, through repeated warnings, showed the great tribulation that awaited him. Yet he was determined to see it through even though it meant persecution, chains, imprisonment and possible death. When his ship weighed anchor for Ptolemais, Paul was aboard. He stayed there just one day, then continued by land to Caesarea, political capital of Palestine and seat of the Roman government.

In Caesarea, Paul and his companions stayed with Philip, the evangelist and a former member of the first board of deacons of the early church (Acts 6:5). While they were there, Agabus, the prophet whom we met in Acts 11:28, arrived. Taking Paul's sash from him and binding his own hands and feet with it, Agabus prophesied that if Paul continued on to Jerusalem he could expect to be bound himself by the antagonistic Jews of that city.

Despite the dangers and the pleading of his well-intentioned friends, Paul journeyed on, knowing that it was God's plan that he should suffer this in order to accomplish the divine

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Cloudiness covered all sections of Ohio Thursday night with the exception of the extreme northwest where fog was general. Temperatures were the mildest nighttime readings in a week with early morning readings from 55 at Toledo to 61 at Columbus and 67 at Cincinnati.

A few light showers were reported near the Ohio River but the rest of the state remained dry.

Today will be partly cloudy and warmer with afternoon temperatures reaching the 80s except possibly in the extreme north.

A cool front moving into the state on Saturday will be accompanied by showers and possible thundershowers.

While his ship was unloading its cargo at Tyre, Paul spent the week with the Christians there. Having been much closer to the political and religious pulse of the country than had decreed that he should go to Rome as a prisoner.

In Jerusalem, Paul spent some time in a mutual bringing-up-to-date with the elders of the Jerusalem church. As a result of that meeting, Paul and four of his traveling companions voluntarily took Nazirite vows, undertook the ritual purification and made the necessary ceremonial offerings at the Temple.

Near the end of the seven-day period of the vow, a group of Asian Jews recognized Paul and raised a mob against him with false accusations of teaching contrary to the law and taking Gentiles into an area of the Temple from which they were traditionally barred. Paul was seized and spirited into the Temple where his enemies huddled on how best to kill him. However, word of the incident was passed to the captain of the Roman guards stationed at the fortress of Antonia. Paul was rescued, but taken, in chains, to the fortress for questioning.

On the steps of the fortress Paul requested, and received, permission to speak to the mob following them. In perfect Hebrew Paul summed up his life for them. He was born a Jew in Tarsus, had received his religious education at the feet of Gamaliel, one of the greatest rabbis of that day; and was as devoted to God as any of his hearers. His devotion had at first led him to be chief among the persecutors of the Christians until his remarkable conversion on the road to Damascus. Speaking of his conversion, Paul related many of the details missing from Luke's original account (Acts 9). But when Paul told his Jewish audience that his God—who was also their God—had commanded him to go forth to the Gentiles, they refused to listen further and demanded that the soldiers take him away.

The captain of the guards ordered Paul examined by scourging, but as they were tying him up, Paul claimed his right, as a Roman citizen, to a fair trial. The captain, determined to discover why the Jerusalem Jews wished Paul killed, had him brought before the Sanhedrin. There, Paul's testimony of faith in the Resurrection caused such bitter turmoil and dispute that Paul again had to be rescued by the Roman soldiers.

In his prison cell that night Paul envisioned the Lord standing by him with a message of assurance and good cheer that was to mean much to him during the delays and anxieties of the next two years.

"He's friendly with everyone," said Weaver, "everyone who will feed him, that is. Bears are omnivorous, so it doesn't matter whether it's honey, crackers, doughnuts, just as long as it's food."

The actor observed that the usual format for such a show is merely a convenient frame in which to place the animals.

"Our format is to tell a story, and use the animal to enhance it—but as a pet animal, not something human under a furry exterior. I don't think that is really necessary and just detracts from the believability," he said.

"And if you aren't faced with the necessity of having the animal wrap up everything neatly at the end, the base of the series can be much broader."

Although "Gentle Ben" is aimed at young audiences, Weaver thinks that adults may find it interesting.

"It's the opposite of 'Gunsmoke,'" he said. "That was made for adults—it was on in the late evening—but it had a big following of kids and they really dug it."

CLAWED BY GRIZZLY — Roy Ducat, 18, of Perrysburg, Ohio, a Toledo suburb, is being treated in a Montanta hospital for injuries he received when he was clawed by a grizzly bear in Glacier National Park. Two girls were killed by grizzlies the same day in the park.

Teenagers Have New Pastime

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police Chief William Patrick of suburban Forest Park says teenagers in his town seem to have taken up a new pastime—shooting at new homes.

Three youths in a sports car fired 22 shots from a .22 caliber rifle at three homes in a new subdivision early Thursday, the chief said. Fifteen of the shots struck the house into which the John A. Kahermans family moved recently. No one was hurt.

Sheriff Says 3 'Suicides' Were Homicide

CHARDON, Ohio (AP)—Geauga County Sheriff Louis A. Robusky and Detective Lt. William Strawbridge say that of the last seven deaths ruled suicide in the county three should have been ruled homicide.

Robusky said there has not been a ruling for homicide in the county since he took office in 1960.

Dr. Alton Behm, county coroner, said that the $6,000-a-year coroner's job is part-time and that facilities are not adequate for thorough autopsies. Dr. Behm said there has not been enough new evidence turned up to warrant changing the suicide rulings.

Prosecutor Gene Henry said that "our facilities for autopsies are basic, to say the least. In unusual cases, we send a corpse to the Cuyahoga County coroner. Dr. Behm is only a physician and no one qualified in criminology will run in the elections."

Robusky said, "our only alternative is to go to the prosecutor, but he relies heavily on the suicide ruling."

Strawbridge said he has investigated three of the deaths ruled suicide and believes that it was impossible for persons to kill themselves in such ways.

Strawbridge said suicide was ruled in the death of one woman who was stabbed and beaten; another was found in her car with no evidence of the motor running, but death was attributed to carbon monoxide poisoning, and a Vietnam veteran was found shot to death.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

This Guy's Not Worth the Worry

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and overweight. Everyone tells me I have a pretty face, but very few boys bother to look any further. I've had only two dates in my life and was so self-conscious I was miserable. You just can't imagine how much I'd like to be popular and have dates.

One night at a party one of the most popular boys in school took an interest in me. I was in heaven. He took me home and we parked on the way and kissed. It was my first kiss. It was wonderful. We kissed a lot and finally I got scared and called a halt.

He said he wanted to see me often, but next time he wasn't stopping at a kiss. He told me to get wise, that any fat girl can be popular if she will just give in a little. I was shocked and demanded that he take me home at once.

He told me to think it over and call him when I changed my mind. That was two lonely months ago, and I've been thinking, O, Abby, what shall I do? I don't want to be a bad girl, but I want to be one of the crowd. Shall I pay the price?

FAT AND LONELY
DEAR FAT: The "price" might be more than you're prepared to pay. The boy is clearly thinking only of himself and his selfish gratification. "Fat girls can be popular," he says, "if they will just give in a little." Brilliant! So can THIN girls, with the kind of boys who use girls for all they can get and then go on to fresher game.

He is not for you. And neither is any boy who hands you that kind of line. Don't be surprised if HE thinks it over and calls you to tell you that he has changed his mind. Some boys use this technique to "test" a girl, when he's looking for one he can respect as well as love.

DEAR ABBY: My mother bought an old beat up upholstered davenport from an antique dealer. She paid $45 for it and sent a truck to haul it to her home. It sat in her basement for nearly a year. She started pulling it apart in order to reupholster it herself and she found $1,600 in bills in a yellowed envelope in one of the cushions.

She hasn't told anyone but me about this. Does she have to return the money to the antique dealer or does it belong to her?

NAMELESS IN NEW ORLEANS
DEAR NAMELESS: The money belongs to your mother, unless and until someone turns up and proves that the money is his and that he had hidden it in that davenport. In the meantime, your mother has a pretty soft cushion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEE: Generalizations are unfair and unjust, so I will not say that ALL 14-year-old girls are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys. I shall be more specific: ALL 14-year-old girls whose parents think they are too young and immature to date 18-year-old boys, ARE!.

Church Architecture Accused Of Misstating Religious Truth

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Church buildings speak. Loudly or softly. Meekly or grandly. Plainly or pretentiously. Most of them today, as gauged by one of the country's leading church architects, are misstating their message.

"Ninety per cent of them express a sense of unreality," says Edward A. Sovik, president of the Guild for Religious Architecture. "They imply that religion is an exotic fantasy, separated from the real."

"To the extent that they do that, they're profane." Yet, he adds, this impression is conveyed by a large proportion of church edifices, both inside and outside, with their profusion of artificial effects and devices to produce a contrived atmosphere.

"Religion is a search for the real in existence, and to surround it with ersatz materials and a fake kind of environment is to deny its reality," he said. "Any pretense in religious architecture is a profanation, and there's plenty of it."

Sovik, 49, of Northfield, Minn., was interviewed in connection with the first International Congress on Religion, Architecture and the Visual Arts starting here Monday, the most broad-scale gathering of its kind.

It is sponsored by 35 religious and professional organizations in 19 nations, including major Protestant, Roman Catholic, Orthodox and Jewish bodies in this country.

Its general chairman, John E. Morse, of New York, a building specialist for the United Church of Christ, said about 1,500 participants from 30 countries are expected to take part in the effort to clarify and evaluate current trends in church art and architecture.

"A revolution is going on in the churches, liturgically and architecturally," Sovik said. "Not just a ripple in Christian history but an actual revolution. 'That changes are coming rapidly is no longer the issue—that's settled, it's happening. The churches are trying to become modern, rather than historical imitations. The issue is what makes a good modern church.'"

About that, he added, churches are in a "frightful flux" of "vast confusion," with their structural styles and interiors conveying a conglomeration of attitudes, often out of step with worship and beliefs.

"A church building either forms or deforms the community within it," he said.

The sharpened concept of worship as a communal act of mutual participation, he said, has made obsolete the old "two-space" types of churches, with a chancel and nave, setting apart "performance and audience."

This construction not only separates people from clergy but also from each other by the long, narrow, individually isolating interiors, Sovik said. "It can destroy the possibility of common participation."

"Some 20th century structures are built for 12th century liturgies," he added.

He said horseshoe-shaped seating seems to provide the most intimate, family like arrangement. Churches "in the round" don't work well, he said since the minister must have his back to part of the people.

In the present welter of construction patterns, he said, a "fantastic amount" of it obscures the genuineness of religion by taking on novelties and gimmicks that "have absolutely no connection with truth."

He cited: Church steeples pointing skyward "like fingers as if God is up there," when in actuality Judeo-Christian conviction asserts that "God enters the world and meets man in the realities of this world and life."

—Monumental-type church buildings, implying their own prestige and self-importance, as if God is enshrined in grand buildings," Sovik added. "An abomination. That kind of God is dead."

—Use of archaic, mystifying symbols, whose meaning is unknown to most people, along with sundry odd, esoteric decorations.

Sophia Loren Behaves As Star Should Behave

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

ROME (AP) — The thing about Sophia Loren is: she is a complete pro.

Her kind of professionalism is seldom seen in these times when actresses straggle late onto movie sets, make public landish outfits, and give monosyllabic interviews. None of that for Loren. She harks back to the era when stars behaved like stars, because their studios insisted. In Sophia's case, the discipline is self-imposed.

Take that steamy day in Rome. In an ancient church in the heart of the city, she was playing one of her final scenes for "The Best House in Naples." It was a comedy sequence in which she enacts Mary in a Nativity pageant, only to have her halo short-circuit and engulf her in smoke.

For two hours Sophia sat under the hot lights in her voluminous costume while special-effects men rigged her for the stunt. Then she underwent several takes in which she was lost in smoke and smothered under a coat by actor Mario Adorf.

She retained her cool throughout. Well, maybe she was a little unnerved, because she asked an interviewer to come back the following day for a chat. The next day she was her usual self as she sat in her dressing-trailer and answered all question.

She was asked about her Hollywood period (1958-60). During that time she supported a number of American stars (John Wayne, Cary Grant, Alan Ladd, Clark Gable) in films that were rarely box office hits. Only when she returned to Italy did she win her Oscar ("Two Women," 1961) and become a star in her own right.

"But the Hollywood experience was not a negative one," she insisted. "I had the pleasure of working with actors who our ordinary existence and being transported into some staged atmosphere, but in our everyday human experience," Sovik said.

But many church buildings imply the opposite, he added, suggesting that "religion is segregated from life in some other-worldly establishment," isolated from being directly relevant to it.

Sovik, a Lutheran and head of a Minnesota architectural firm, studied theology and later served as a Marine captain in the Pacific in World War II, prior to getting his architectural degree at Yale.

As he sees it, anything meant to dissimulate or create fraudulent impressions, such as steel trusswork camouflaged to look like wood, is "absolutely illegitimate" in churches. "Our obligation is to deal with truth."

Churches should be "forthright, ingenuous, unaffected," he said. They should reflect "the real and true," the conviction that there is "order in the universe," and also the ethical compassion of religion.

They also should express the holiness or mystery of life, Sovik added, but he said this ineffable, unexplainable quality should be mirrored honestly through beauty, rather than by contrived mysteriousness.

"And I enjoyed many of the pictures. 'Heller in Pink Tights,' while it wasn't a success at the time, was a real gem that now plays the art theaters of Europe. 'Houseboat' was a big hit, and 'Bay of Naples' was successful in America at least."

Sophia said also that she has no regrets about "A Countess from Hong Kong" despite the critical and commercial drubbing it received in the United States and England.

"Everywhere else it was a great success," she said. "I enjoyed the picture and I found working in it a great experience. After all Chaplin is the foundation of our profession; every comedy gesture was practically invented by him. There were so many things that I learned working with him."

Reports of a feud with Chaplin were unfounded, she declared—"I love Charlie Chaplin."

In the more immediate future are two specials for American television: one a musical with the songs of Tony Bennett and the appearances of Marcello Mastroianni, Peter Sellers and Jonathan Winters; the other a documentary called simply "Sophia."

YOUR MONEY

By CHET MCKENZIE

Americans in the 1960's are "on the move" in more ways than one. More than their parents and much, much more than their grandparents, they are likely to move to a new home as the family grows and family needs change. One reason is that only rarely can a young couple buy a home in the beginning that will serve all their needs later on. Young budgets usually mean a smaller home.

If you're looking for that "second home" now, financial experts advise you to select it carefully as a more permanent home, to see you through the years when your family grows up. Make sure it's big enough for future needs... and select a neighborhood that will be just as attractive to you ten years from now as it is today, if possible.

Another important consideration is home financing, bearing in mind your family needs and income. This is where we come in. We'll be glad to answer your questions about low-cost home financing, tailored to your individual circumstances. Come in and talk it over!

Church Architecture Accused Of Misstating Religious Truth

NEW YORK (AP) — Church buildings speak. Loudly or softly. Meekly or grandly. Plainly or pretentiously. Most of them today, as gauged by one of the country's leading church architects, are misstating their message.

"Ninety per cent of them express a sense of unreality," says Edward A. Sovik, president of the Guild for Religious Architecture. "They imply that religion is an exotic fantasy, separated from the real."

—Use of archaic, mystifying symbols, whose meaning is unknown to most people, along with sundry odd, esoteric decorations. "If the church wants to be current, it better use current symbols," Sovik said.

—Pompous, imposing types of buildings that seem to seek to dominate by authoritarian power rather than to serve, illuminate and dignify human life, which is a basic element of the Judeo-Christian faith.

—Tricky church interiors with dim lights, shadowy vaults, carpeted silence, obstructing pillars and various illusory effects designed to create a mystical atmosphere as if religion involves escape from the real world.

This makes for "a sort of hallucinogenic experience, a kind of brainwashing," Sovik said. It "seems intended to manipulate" by artifice, when religion actually aims to "heighten the awareness of the real and true."

"The Hebrew-Christian tradition asserts that God is present and active in this world and we confront him not by escaping our ordinary existence and being transported into some staged atmosphere, but in our everyday human experience," Sovik said.

YOUR MONEY

By CHET MCKENZIE

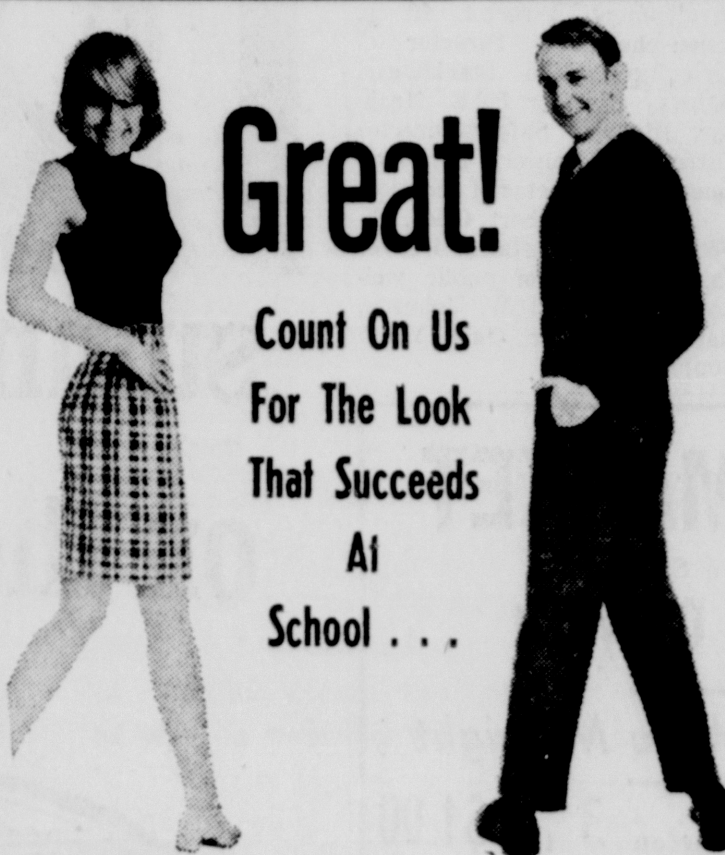

Americans in the 1960's are "on the move" in more ways than one. More than their parents, and much more than their grandparents, they are likely to move to a new home as the family grows and family needs change.

One reason is that only rarely can a young couple buy a home in the beginning that will serve all their needs later on. Young budgets usually mean a smaller home.

If you're looking for that "second home" now, financial experts advise you to select it carefully as a more permanent home, to see you through the years when your family grows up. Make sure it's big enough for future needs . . . and select a neighborhood that will be just as attractive to you ten years from now as it is today, if possible.

Another important consideration is home financing, bearing in mind your family needs and income. This is where we come in. We'll be glad to answer your questions about low-cost home financing, tailored to your individual circumstances. Come in and talk it over!

3 Share Honors In First Round

RYE, N.Y. (AP) — Jim Colbert, a bright-eyed young Kansan, took a long, hard look at his position in the $250,000 Westchester Classic Golf Tournament, gulped once and admitted: "I feel a little uncomfortable."

3 Compete In National Rifle Matches

Three Pickaway County boys participated in the junior competition during the National Rifle Matches at Camp Perry, O.

Ronnie Majors, Richard Congrove and Dale Parish qualified in Class B along with 325 others. Majors advanced from the rank of sharpshooter bar two to sharpshooter bar four. Congrove moved from marksman first class to sharpshooter bar one. Parish, qualifying for the first time, advanced to sharpshooter first class.

After qualification, prone matches were held for Class B competitors. Parish achieved a rank of tenth and Congrove was 15th in the nation.

Robert Bower, 104 Reber Ave., a junior rifle instructor at the national event, accompanied the three to Camp Perry.

3,000 Toe Line For Handicap At Vandalia

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Almost 3,000 of the nation's top trapshooters toe the line for today's 68th Grand American Handicap and judging from preliminary marks Annie Oakley would be pressed to win.

Here's a sample: Peal Ferguson of Bethalto, Ill., hit 99 of 100 clay birds from 21 yards out to take Thursday's preliminary handicap.

In the ladies' division, Lillian Niederer of Titusville, N. J., took first place with 97 of 100 from 20½ yards.

Eyes have been trained on Hiram Bradley, the 30-year-old Greenville, Ohio, school guidance counselor who has been cracking targets with amazing consistency.

Bradley, during the preliminaries, broke 599 of 600 birds and is shooting for his second over-all title.

White Sox Lose to Yankees, 5-0

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Eddie Stanky doesn't need Hubert H. Humphrey. And he can get along without Bill Monbouquette, too.

The Chicago White Sox manager held forth at great length after his club was blanked on five hits by Monbouquette Thursday and lost to the New York Yankees 5-0. The defeat dropped the Sox into a virtual tie with Boston for the American League lead.

Earlier this month, Stanky barred the clubhouse door in Bloomington, Minn., after a game with the Twins, thereby unwittingly keeping out the vice president, who, though a Twins' fan, wanted to pay his respects.

Stanky sent a telegram of apology, but when asked about the incident Thursday, said, "Humphrey can't hit. What do I want with him?"

The White Sox couldn't do much hitting either against Monbouquette, who, after being released by Detroit in May spent three weeks frustratingly trying to catch on with every major league team before the Yankees took a chance that has been paying off handsomely ever since.

Monbouquette has pitched well in relief, but in making his first start against Chicago, he was superb. The league leaders managed only five hits and only one of them went out of the infield.

In other American League games, the Red Sox beat Washington 7-5, Minnesota took Detroit 4-2 and Cleveland edged California 2-1. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

In the National League, St. Louis blanked San Francisco 2-0, Houston beat Atlanta 5-4 in 10 innings and Los Angeles edged Cincinnati 4-3 in 10 innings. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia were rained out and Chicago and New York were unscheduled.

Scarlet and Gray Cup Highlights SD Race Card

The famed Scarlet and Gray Cup Series for 3 year-olds and the Invitational Trot and Pace highlight the race card this weekend at Scioto Downs.

Tonight the 3-year-old pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray will carry a purse of $7,375, and nine finely honed sophomore sidewheelers will line up behind Bud Jenne's mobile starting gate. Sharing the spotlight Friday night with the Scarlet and Gray contenders will be eight solid starters in the $4,000 Invitational Trot.

Saturday night Scioto Downs will present the 3 year-old trotting division of the Scarlet and Gray Cup for a purse of $6,650 and eight will go postward. In the $4,000 Invitational Pace, seven sidewheelers will attempt to break the stranglehold Short John has had on the Saturday night feature event with three straight wins.

Tonight's 3 year-old pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray will find King Noble from the powerful Joe O'Brien stable ruling as the slight morning line choice over Curly Smart's More Time. Owned by the Armstrong Bros. of Brampton, Ontario, Canada, this slick bay son of Noble Adios is fresh from a sterling victory in the $10,340 Illinois Colt Stake in a blistering 2:00 1-5. Last season the chancy son of the 1956 Little Brown Jug winner earned a mark of 1:59 3-5 as a 2 year-old.

More Time, a compact bodied son of Good Time, is owned, trained and driven by the "Squire of Delaware, Ohio," Curly Smart. His record of 2:02 came earlier in the year at Scioto Downs and he moves in with two quick wins on the Ohio Fair Circuit.

But the 3 year-old pacing division is by no means a two-horse race. Challenging from the number six post position is Swinging Time, a bay son of Right Time, owned by Dr. and Mrs. Robert Johns of Wooster, Ohio. With the veteran Tom Brinkerhoff in the sulky, Swinging Time carved a new career mark of 2:01 4-5 at Northfield Park's half mile oval a few weeks ago, which makes him at least a contender for two minute honors over Scioto's mercury based five-eighths mile strip.

Scioto's leading driver Bill Herman will take Key Treat to the post with a record of 2:02. Rounding out the Friday feature field is Paul L. Good, Bay Moon, Tronia's Son reined by Emmett Ebenhack, Fire Up and Legal Time.

The $4,000 Invitational Trot field includes former winners Venture Gal and Interloper from Washington C. H., plus a select trio making their first 1967 start at Scioto, Darn Farber, Princess Anita, and Honor Guest who owns seven wins in ten starts this year.

Saturday night Dick Buxton takes Flicking Star to the post as the early choice in the 3 year-old trotting division of the Scarlet and Gray Cup. This bay son of Star's Pride owns a half mile track record of 2:05 4-5. Dick Williams drew the pole position with Scotch Tweed, followed out by Flicking Star, R. I. Saunders, C. Volo, Berry Belle, Gusti Galon, Belle Marie and Mr. Hennessy.

The $4,000 Invitational Pace Saturday night attracted seven starters and Short John, the aged son of Track Hcho, owned by John Haignere of Centerville, Ohio, will be gunning for his fourth straight victory under the expert hands of reinsman Dennis Reed. Reed took command of the blazing bay on Aug. 4 and promptly guided him to victory in 2:02 1-5 in a preferred pace. This moved him up to the invitational ranks the next week and the result was a win for Short John in an amazing 2:00 3-5. Last week Short John unloaded a last half mile in :59 3-5 seconds to defeat David Hudson.

Saturday night David Hudson will be back as will his worthy adversaries of last week, Hideaway Pat with a record of 2:00 4-5.

Returning to Scioto for the invitational Saturday night is Miss Red Lion who was photo'd out in 1:59 4-5 and Bye Time a 2:01 winner. Making their first start in the fast feature are James E with Bill Herman and Peppy Reico with a mile mark of 2:01 1-5.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Philadelphia Phillies' slugging third baseman Rich Allen will be out of action the rest of the season, after accidentally cutting two tendons on his right hand and wrist Thursday night.

The all-star slugger was pushing his car at home here when he accidentally shoved the hand through a headlight, cutting the two tendons and severing a nerve.

He was admitted to the operating room at Temple University Hospital, where two orthopedic surgeons and a neurosurgeon worked on the hand over a period of nearly five hours.

The doctors said Allen's hand would be in a cast at least six weeks and that if the healing was normal, he will not have any difficulty in grasping a bat or ball.

A team spokesman said one of the two tendons controlled the little finger and the other, part of the ring finger. He said the ulnar nerve was cut one inch below the wrist.

This means, he said, that Allen now has so sensation in the little finger and only partial sensation in his ring finger. He said the nerve also controls the fine motion of that side of the hand.

Purdue, Big Ten runnerup in football last season, has lost 27 lettermen, top figure in its conference.

Jerry Adair and Jim Landis also homered for the Red Sox who won 10 out of 12 in their current home stand. The Senators scored three times in the ninth before John Wyatt came in to get the final out.

Harmon Killebrew's 34th homer broke a tie in the eighth inning and the Twins scored again in the ninth on Ted Uhlaender's run-scoring single to cement the victory and sole possession of third place, half a game behind Chicago and Boston. The Tigers are in fourth, 1½ games out.

Chuck Hinton hit a homer in the fourth inning for the decisive Cleveland run and Sam McDowell protected it, giving up just six hits to the Angels and striking out nine.

Lind's Boy Wins at Scioto Downs

Lind's Boy, driven by Jim Mace, won the fourth race at Scioto Downs Thursday, pacing the mile in 2:08 1-5.

Owned by Dorothy A. Wener of Bucyrus, Lind's Boy is trained by Jim Arledge at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds oval.

In the sixth race Mace reined Pink Taffy to a fourth place finish and in the seventh he finished third with Silver's Rose.

Rod Knight, trained by Forrest Short and driven last night by Harry Short, won the eighth race at Scioto. The 3-year-old son of Knight Time posted a time of 2:03 4-5 last night, just one-tenth of a second off his lifetime mark.

Tonight at Scioto Downs, Emmett Ebenhack will rein Tronia's Son and Jim Mace will drive Fire Up in the pacing division of the Scarlet and Gray Cup. Jim Arledge will rein Barb's Gold in the second race.

In addition to driving in the featured event, Mace will also rein Lost Cause in the third race, Fair Smokey in the fourth and Fair March in the sixth, and Russianation in the $4,000 invitational trot. Forrest Short will rein Sara Ann Scotch in the fifth.

Circleville Stars Win Chillicothe LL Tournament

Circleville Little League All-Stars took top honors in the Scioto Valley Tournament at Chillicothe, Thursday dropping losers' bracket finisher Frankfort, 1-0.

Frankfort would have had to beat Circleville twice in a row to take the crown. The winning run came in the top of the third with two out when John Ankrom and Rock Davis tagged back-to-back doubles.

Dave Truex worked the mound route for Circleville, walking three, fanning 17 and allowing one hit.

Rock Davis also socked a single, bringing the locals' total number of hits to three.

IN 12 games in both Teays Valley and Chillicothe, Circleville won 11 and lost only one.

They scored 80 runs while holding the opposition to 28.

Truex and Greg Hoskins, standouts on the pitching staff, allowed 26 hits, walked 43 and struck out 175 batters.

In addition, Circleville batters reached base safely 84 times.

The All-Stars ran up a record of 18 wins and five losses in extra season activities. Last night's game was the last for the team.

Managers Fred (Speeder) Davis and Paul Hoskins have set up a picture-taking schedule for parents. The team will be assembled between 1 and 1:30 p. m. Saturday at Ted Lewis Park. A picnic for the team is slated Sept. 2.

San Francisco 49ers Frustrated

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. MARY'S, Calif. (AP)—Jack Christiansen is revving up his motors for a fast start this year in search of the National Football League title that always has eluded the San Francisco 49ers.

The 49ers tied for the Western Conference title once in 1957 but lost the playoff to Detroit. For the rest of the time it has been 17 long bitter years of frustration.

A strong finish in 1965 raised hopes for 1966 but John Brodie's long holdout and the reluctant confusion in camp ruined the season. San Francisco lost all of its preseason games last year and went to Oct. 8 before it finally won a game by upending Green Bay.

Determined to get his club out of the starting gate fast, Christiansen has been bearing down a little more in this picturesque camp on the campus of St. Mary's College. At least it paid off in the opener, an impressive 42-14 romp over Cleveland.

Brodie's reported $1 million five-year contract still is in effect but the grumblings and player walkouts seem to have ended. That Super Bowl game and Green Bay's postseason purses of $25,000 appear to have done wonders for morale.

"All the players and I think we have a good shot to win it," said Christiansen. "We're in the division with Baltimore and Los Angeles and Atlanta. The Rams will be tough but we split with them last year. Baltimore always is a real problem with us. They have beaten us nine in a row since 1962. Johnny Unitas always seems to have his best days against us. But we think we can do the job this time."

As of the present, Christiansen plans to let Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner from Florida, learn the trade on the bench, except for punting.

Brodie is No. 1 and George Mira, the scrambler from Miami, is next. Mira, unhappy about playing second fiddle, is talking about playing out his option. A trade still is possible with so many clubs looking for quarterbacks.

The 49ers have a strong running game built around John David Crow, who is coming off knee surgery, and Ken Willard, the fullback who had to be talked into coming back after demanding a trade. Gary Lewis and Dave Kopay are solid back-up men.

Kay McFarland at flanker is the only probable change in the offensive unit. McFarland takes the place of Bernie Casey, traded away during the winter. Dave Parks, perhaps the best split end in the league, is back. Bob Windsor, a future draft pick from Kentucky, has the speed to give Monty Stickles a fight for the tight end post.

Tackles Len Rhode and Walt Rock, guards John Thomas and Howard Mudd and center Bruce Bosley make up a veteran offensive line.

It has been hard to run on the 49ers but their deep defense has been vulnerable to the bomb. Jim Johnson, a fine corner man, will be back with Kermit Alexander, George Donnelly and Alvin Randolph, a 1966 rookie who wound up as a starter.

Frank Nunley of Michigan and Cass Banaszek, two highly regarded draftees, may force their way into regular linebacking jobs on the unit that consists of Dave Wilcox, Ed Beard and 34-year-old Matt Hazeltine.

Stan Hindman, rated a top lineman in college ball when drafted last year from Mississippi, has come along fast to take over Jim Norton's old job at left end on the defensive line. Clark Miller is the other end and the veterans Charlie Krueger and Roland Lakes are the tackles.

While Tommy Davis was recuperating from a knee operation, Spurrier has been doing the punting. He also can kick field goals if Davis is slow coming around.

Now's Your Chance To Get OSU Football Game Tickets

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If you're one of those Ohio State football fans who has trouble getting tickets, this could be your big chance.

Season book ticket sales are lagging—but not enough to make Ticket Director George Staten break into a cold sweat.

"Ticket sales are running a little below last season and we are down about 2,000 season books," Staten reports.

For more than a decade now, tickets to Buckeye grid skirmishes have been harder to come by than a hit Broadway show.

An unattractive schedule, except for Purdue's Oct. 14 visit, seems to be the major reason for the dropoff.

When Athletic Director Dick Larkins arranged the 1967 five-game home program years ago, he could hardly know that Arizona, Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa—the four other opponents on the home schedule—would have an over-all record of 12-27-1.

Rose Bowl victor Purdue, with a neat 8-2 mark, is the feature attraction. But don't get your hopes up for seeing this one.

"The chances of getting a ticket to either the Purdue or Illinois games are nil unless you want to take a crack at a bleacher seat," Staten said.

"We have about 600 tickets left for the Purdue game and an estimated 1,000 for Illinois but we hope to sell those in season book form."

Staten is high on Ohio State's chances in the Big Ten this season. "This could be a Rose Bowl team and our game with Purdue is a big one, both in the standings and at the gate," Staten said.

"If we can beat Purdue, there should definitely be a pickup for the Wisconsin and Iowa games."

Right now, there are some 5,550 single game tickets left for Wisconsin and 6,751 for Iowa. The Hawks finished in the league cellar last year.

Staten figures that the Bucks have 63,227 in the bank for each game and that sales between now and game time will boost the figure into the 80,000 bracket.

San Francisco 49ers Frustrated

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. MARY'S, Calif. (AP)—Jack Christiansen is revving up his motors for a fast start this year in search of the National Football League title that always has eluded the San Francisco 49ers.

The 49ers tied for the Western Conference title once in 1957 but lost the playoff to Detroit. For the rest of the time it has been 17 long bitter years of frustration.

A strong finish in 1965 raised hopes for 1966 but John Brodie's long holdout and the reluctant confusion in camp ruined the season. San Francisco lost all of its preseason games last year and went to Oct. 8 before it finally won a game by upending Green Bay.

Determined to get his club out of the starting gate fast, Christiansen has been bearing down a little more in this picturesque camp on the campus of St. Mary's College. At least it paid off in the opener, an impressive 42-14 romp over Cleveland.

Brodie's reported $1 million five-year contract still is in effect but the grumblings and player walkouts seem to have ended. That Super Bowl game and Green Bay's postseason purses of $25,000 appear to have done wonders for morale.

"All the players and I think we have a good shot to win it," said Christiansen. "We're in the division with Baltimore and Los Angeles and Atlanta. The Rams will be tough but we split with them last year. Baltimore always is a real problem with us. They have beaten us nine in a row since 1962. Johnny Unitas always seems to have his best days against us. But we think we can do the job this time."

As of the present, Christiansen plans to let Steve Spurrier, the Heisman Trophy winner from Florida, learn the trade on the bench, except for punting.

Brodie is No. 1 and George Mira, the scrambler from Miami, is next. Mira, unhappy about playing second fiddle, is talking about playing out his option. A trade still is possible with so many clubs looking for quarterbacks.

The 49ers have a strong running game built around John David Crow, who is coming off knee surgery, and Ken Willard, the fullback who had to be talked into coming back after demanding a trade. Gary Lewis and Dave Kopay are solid back-up men.

Kay McFarland at flanker is the only probable change in the offensive unit. McFarland takes the place of Bernie Casey, traded away during the winter. Dave Parks, perhaps the best split end in the league, is back. Bob Windsor, a future draft pick from Kentucky, has the speed to give Monty Stiekles a fight for the tight end post.

Tackles Len Rhoads and Walt Rock, guards John Thomas and Howard Mudd and center Bruce Bosley make up a veteran offensive line.

It has been hard to run on the 49ers but their deep defense has been vulnerable to the bomb. Jim Johnson, a fine corner man, will be back with Kermit Alexander, George Donnelly and Alvin Randolph, a 1966 rookie who wound up as a starter.

Frank Nunley of Michigan and Cass Banaszek, two highly regarded draftees, may force their way into regular linebacking jobs on the unit that consists of Dave Wilcox, Ed Beard and 34-year-old Matt Hazeltine.

Stan Hindman, rated a top lineman in college ball when drafted last year from Mississippi, has come along fast to take over Jim Norton's old job at left end on the defensive line. Clark Miller is the other end and the veterans Charlie Krueger and Roland Lakes are the tackles.

While Tommy Davis was recuperating from a knee operation, Spurrier has been doing the punting. He also can kick field goals if Davis is slow coming around.

Non-Proliferation Treaty

Have-Nots Seek Atom Guarantees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States and Soviet Union are considering assuring non-nuclear nations that signing a nonproliferation treaty will not leave them exposed to atomic blackmail.

The questions of a nuclear defense shield for those countries renouncing atomic weapons is a major issue connected with—but not settled by—the proposed treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms.

U. S. strategists figure nuclear blackmail and other problems posed by atomic have-not countries will be tougher to work out in completing the proposed treaty than the differences remaining with the Soviets.

The United States and Soviet Union submitted their long-awaited joint draft of the treaty Thursday at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference. They left the treaty's inspection clause blank for the time being, mainly because of Moscow's differences with Western Europe over procedures to check for treaty violations.

President Johnson said in a White House statement that U.S.-Soviet submission of the proposed pact "brings us to the final and the most critical stage" of the long effort since World War II to curb the spread of nuclear arsenals.

U.S. officials voiced hope the 17-nation Geneva group—which is to debate the U.S.-Soviet draft and put it into final form—will make enough progress over the next couple of months to present it at the U.N. General Assembly's annual disarmament debate this fall.

At that rate of progress, the finished treaty could be ready for signing sometime next year. U.S. officials predicted more than 80 countries would sign, as they did the 1963 limited test ban treaty. Under the nonproliferation treaty, the nuclear power would agree never to give their weapons to others. The non-nuclear signers would pledge not to obtain them.

Nondissemination of nuclear weapons was the policy of both Washington and Moscow even before they presented the treaty. But for most of the nonatomic nations, permanently yielding their rights to acquire nuclear explosives is more difficult.

Communist China and France have indicated they will not sign the treaty.

Application Made For AM Station

The Federal Communications Commission announced Thursday the receipt of applications for AM radio stations, one from Circleville.

Honor L. Whitacre and Nelson R. Embry II operating as Circleville Broadcasting Co., requested a permit for an AM station to broadcast on 1540 kilocycles with 1,000 watts or power. The permit would allow daytime broadcasting only.

Another permit application was received from Runnymede, Inc., Heath, O., also for an AM station. The request was for an operating frequency of 1,000 kilocycles and 250 watts of power, for daytime only.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor called Sgt. Jimmy G. Stewart "one of those rare individuals who willingly laid down his life that his friends might live."

The tribute came Thursday as Resor presented a posthumous Medal of Honor to the family of the 23-year-old 1st Cavalry Division trooper. On hand to accept the award, the nation's highest for gallantry, were the soldier's wife, Gertrude R. Stewart of Columbus, Ga., and their two sons.

Resor said Stewart's six-man squad was attacked by a reinforced North Vietnamese company on May 18, 1966. All but Stewart were seriously wounded.

Stewart refused to withdraw, said Resor, and fought single-handedly for four hours "like a man possessed." The enemy was repulsed, but Stewart was killed. The Army said his body was surrounded by eight enemy dead.

All of Stewart's squad mates survived.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government purchasers are growing increasingly aware of Pike's pique—not the mountain peak in Colorado but the mounting ire of Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y.

Pike, long a critic of what he believes are wasteful government purchasing practices, added a new charge Thursday. He said the government, working through a middle-man, paid $312.50 for a plastic generator knob that Pike claims the manufacturer sells wholesale for $1.62. The government bought 130 knobs for $33,398.75. Pike says they should have paid $210.60.

Ohio Legislature

Emergency Clause Out As Omnibus Bill Passes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Republican administration's revived omnibus tax hike bill headed into a conference committee today as legislative leaders struggled to bring the curtain down on a session that started on a snowy day last January.

Majority Republicans hoped to restore to the big money bill an emergency measure which would make funds from an estimated $300 million for education available with the start of school instead of 90 days from passage.

The House breathed new life into the measure Thursday afternoon following defeat of the Senate-passed bill in that chamber earlier in the day. But representatives lacked the votes for an emergency clause and the bill passed with a 90-day effective date.

It takes a two-thirds majority of 66 votes to pass emergency bills and the GOP dominates the lower chamber 62-37. Besides that, eight Republicans voted against the bill and most of them said they did so because of a controversial provision appropriating $15 million for parochial schools.

A possibility of a compromise between the leadership and the Democratic minority kept alive hopes that the emergency clause may yet be restored so that average annual $800 teacher raises and new and expanded educational programs may begin next month instead of in December.

Republicans could accomplish this by relenting to Democratic demands that the tax hike-education-appropriations bill be divided into three parts for separate votes.

However, Republicans are reluctant to give Democrats a chance to support the record school appropriations and then vote against the taxes. The GOP did this to Democrats the last time state taxes were raised, a decade ago.

Using a so-called "jitter" calendar which enables the legislature to get around time-consuming parliamentary rules, the Senate held its second floor session of the day late Thursday and raced through 19 bills and a resolution.

The Senate agreed to House amendments and completed passage of an omnibus bill revising Ohio banking laws. Key provisions permit cumulative voting in elections for directors when specified in bank bylaws and require that trusts created after Jan. 1 must include written authorization for banks to vote shares of their own stock held in trust.

Action was completed in the Senate on bills requiring the listing of Social Security numbers on driver's licenses, increasing the fee for duplicate fishing licenses from 25 to 35 cents, permitting the Agriculture Department to conduct programs to control blackbirds, and requiring re-examination of drivers charged with seven or more points under the state's point penalty system.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Army Stanley R. Resor called Sgt. Jimmy G. Stewart "one of those rare individuals who willingly laid down his life that his friends might live."

The tribute came Thursday as Resor presented a posthumous Medal of Honor to the family of the 23-year-old 1st Cavalry Division trooper. On hand to accept the award, the nation's highest for gallantry, were the soldier's wife, Gertrude R. Stewart of Columbus, Ga., and their two sons. Resor said Stewart's six-man squad was attacked by a reinforced North Vietnamese company on May 18, 1966. All but Stewart were seriously wounded.

Stewart refused to withdraw, said Resor, and fought single-handedly for four hours "like a man possessed." The enemy was repulsed, but Stewart was killed. The Army said his body was surrounded by eight enemy dead.

All of Stewart's squad mates survived.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government purchasers are growing increasingly aware of Pike's pique—not the mountain peak in Colorado but the mounting ire of Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y.

Pike, long a critic of what he believes are wasteful government purchasing practices, added a new charge Thursday. He said the government, working through a middle-man, paid $312.50 for a plastic generator knob that Pike claims the manufacturer sells wholesale for $1.62. The government bought 130 knobs for $33,298.75. Pike says they should have paid $210.60.

Non-Proliferation Treaty

Have-Nots Seek Atom Guarantees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The United States and Soviet Union are considering assuring non-nuclear nations that signing a nonproliferation treaty will not leave them exposed to atomic blackmail.

The questions of a nuclear defense shield for those countries renouncing atomic weapons is a major issue connected with—but not settled by—the proposed treaty to ban the spread of nuclear arms.

U. S. strategists figure nuclear blackmail and other problems posed by atomic have-not countries will be tougher to work out in completing the proposed treaty than the differences remaining with the Soviets.

The United States and Soviet Union submitted their long-awaited joint draft of the treaty Thursday at the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference. They left the treaty's inspection clause blank for the time being, mainly because of Moscow's differences with Western Europe over procedures to check for treaty violations.

President Johnson said in a White House statement that U.S.-Soviet submission of the proposed pact "brings us to the final and the most critical stage" of the long effort since World War II to curb the spread of nuclear arsenals.

U.S. officials voiced hope the 17-nation Geneva group—which is to debate the U.S.-Soviet draft and put it into final form—will
